Fishing and Picnicking in the Land of Flowers

Florida not much of a place for hogs and cows—Board is High

St. Petersburg, Fla., February 26, 1894.

DEAR REPUBLICAN.—In a few days I shall leave this point for Sumterville, further up in the State, where I hope to meet relatives and do some sport with gun and in fishing in the fresh water lakes. After about three weeks spent in that part of the State Mrs. G. and I will start home taking in some points on the Atlantic coast en route. So, it may be that I will write no letter for publication next issue. As pleasant as has been my stay in Florida I am anxious to get back to business and to old Calhoun, which, after all, is about the best all around section of country I have found in my limited travels. Florida has the best winter climate on this continent, but we have in Calhoun a better summer climate while we have every advantage in soil and profitable productions of the farm. If our people would only make the farm first self-supporting and then make cotton their surplus crop, they would be rich in a few years. And then they have the inevitable blessing of pure and cold water. Here people do not drink the water from wells. They catch the rain water in cisterns built above ground and in barrels and use that for drinking purposes, and it is altogether good. I got a pitcher full from a cistern across the street the other day and found single tails in it. At the home of Mr. R. E. Neeld, who will be kindly remembered by the old inhabitants of Jacksonville, I found a sulphur spring, and greatly enjoyed its waters. Mr. Neeld lives about two miles from here, at Point Penelas. Mrs. G. and I were invited out to an oyster roast at his house. Arriving with a party from here, we found the oysters had been taken from the bay ready for the roast. An open fire was built, and a feast fit for the gods was soon ready. Each member of the party opened the oyster shells for himself or herself and they were good. In connection with the oysters a delicious clam chowder and good coffee were served. Our host and his good wife were kind and hospitable to a degree, which served as an excellent sauce to a delicious picnic dinner, and altogether, the day was one of the most pleasant I have spent in Florida.

Every member of this excellent family and their kindred have been very kind to us during our stay here. We took dinner at Mr. Wm. Neeld's one day and spent the evening looking over his charming place. He has the best orange grove I have seen, and an abundance of other fruits of this section. He has got the Texas fever, however, and wants to sell. I said to him that I could not see why a man fixed with such surroundings should want to leave them, and he replied he did not either, unless it was simply a desire for change. The oranges in this section of the State stay on the trees much longer than in other parts higher up, and makes a grove there much more valuable. Owners are not compelled to sell in the first rush to market. Still, oranges are low here now, as is everything everywhere. They are retailed here on the streets at ten for a nickel. Fish are also very cheap. The fish houses give one and a half cents a pound for mullet, sheepshead, trout and such fish and five cents for mackerel and pompano. Of course they sell them for much more when shipped away. Oysters are also cheap, but other means of living are as high as with us. Great quantities of canned goods are used and good milk is an unknown article. Condensed milk is much used. The cattle are scrubby and poor and give no such rich milk as do the fine cows of good old Calhoun.

Good horses are also hard to find, and a respectable looking hog would be a marvelous sight to a native. One of the reasons of this condition is the lack of good pasture. The sandy soil does not appear to be well adapted to the growth of the grasses. But every country has its drawbacks. Florida is a very pleasant place to winter in, and it is said that here it is also pleasant in summer if one can avoid too much exposure to the sun. The breeze from the keeps the temperature in the shade cool enough and a breeze is blowing almost constantly from some quarter. Since my last letter Mrs. Grant and I have been putting in some time hunting shells, which is quite a fad with most of the visitors to the coast. When she first came here she was much afraid of the bay and would not venture very far out even on the dock without assistance, but now she wades far out into the waters of the bay and does not seem to be much disturbed at the incoming of the tide.

The influx of visitors is not so great this season as formerly, but the hotels here are all full, mostly of northern and western people. I notice that the tourists practice many small economies, no matter what their means. If one practices economy it is not very costly to winter here. Good board may be had here from five dollars and a half to twelve dollars and a half a week. One gentleman of considerable means rented a furnished room over the bakery. He buys his bread from the baker, gets his oysters cheap from dealers on the dock and catches his own fish. He probably lives very well for three dollars a week. He does his own cooking and says he likes it. A man is a fool who comes here to put on style unless he is wealthy and can afford it. Of course those who have ample means can find as high priced hotels as they may wish for. Those who come here to fish and hunt should bring some of their old clothes and shoes with them. The salt water rapidly ruins leather and woollen clothes.

Judge Inzer thought of coming here with his family and so wrote me, but later changed his mind and wrote me a few days ago that he would go to St. Augustine. This week has been rather uneventful and hence my letter is short. We are still catching fish, but the great mackerel run has not yet begun and I fear will not before I leave. Still several hundred are caught from the dock daily.

HUNDLEY AMENDMENT.

On another page will be found a circular letter addressed to the teachers of the county by the Educational Campaign Board, which consists of President Forney, of Jacksonville, Principal Eaddy, of White Plains, and Prof. Gunnels, of Oxford. In order that the motive of the letter may be fully appreciated by our readers, we publish below the Hundley Amendment, to which it relates.

The clause of the Constitution restricting local taxation now reads: Section 2, of Article XI, of the Constitution:

"No power to levy taxes shall be delegated to individuals or private corporations."

As proposed to be amended it will read:

"No power to levy taxes shall be delegated to individuals or private corporations; Provided, that the General Assembly may confer upon the trustees of the school districts in this State the power to levy within their districts a special tax of not more than one-fourth of one per centum, to be applied exclusively to maintaining the public schools in the districts in which said tax is levied; Provided, that the money collected from persons of the white race may by law be applied exclusively to the education of children of the white race, and the money collected from persons of the colored race, may by law be applied exclusively to the education of the children of the colored race."

City News

Rev. Mr. Milleschampe will preach a sermon to the pupils in the Normal Department of the College at the Episcopal Church, on Sunday March 11. Everybody invited.

Maj. J. W. A. Wright, president of the Talladega Military Academy, will deliver his famous lecture on DeSoto here soon. He is an excellent Spanish scholar and has made a special study of DeSoto. The lecture will be delivered in the College chapel and the proceeds will be donated to the College.

A talking machine has been the attraction on the streets this week. All the latest topical songs, Talmage's sermons, "Dear Robin I'll Be True," tariff speeches, "He Never Came Back," and other choice selections dispensed gratuitously at five cents a piece.

Young Stovall, the man in jail charged with the murder of Thomas Martin at Francis Station some months ago, will be tried on a writ of habeas corpus on Tuesday next before Judge Crook. More than sixty witnesses will be examined.

The assignment of A. L. Stewart on last Monday morning came as a surprise to Mr. Stewart's many friends here and over the county. For many years this has been one of Jacksonville's most respected firms, and it is only the stringency of the times and unusually small collections that has caused this em-barrasment. Walt Dean was named as assignee. We hope to see the firm on its feet again.

Gordon Frank went up to Piedmont yesterday to bring back with him John McCain, a notorious negro gambler who is wanted here on several charges.

THANKS.—Mr. Editor, please allow me a little space to return thanks to Miss Exa Hames for the beautiful solo so exquisitely rendered at our Epworth League. Miss Hames has splendid talent. Wish we could have had the other beautiful music selected for the occasion. We hope to have it next time. Our meeting demonstrated that we have fine talent among the young people here. We thank all who contributed to the success of the meeting.—JAMES H. LESLIE.

Valentine Bice, a respected citizen of the county, died at DeArman on the 16th.

Circuit court convenes on April 23rd.

William Denson (not Congressman Denson) was jailed here this week for selling mortgaged property. Billy is in the low grounds.

Preaching at the Methodist Church tomorrow at 11 a. m. Communion services.

The failure of the big supply houses in the county is to be deplored because of the individual losses sustained; but at the same time it marks a new prosperity. The farmers will raise their own supplies of hog and hominy. The cotton crop will be curtailed, and diversified money-making crops will be the order of the day. The farmer will then pay cash for decent furniture for his home, good clothes, new buggies, and other improvements—and not so much grieve.

We are in receipt of a nicely bound volume containing the road laws of Calhoun county, compiled by Judge Crook and published by G. H. Norwood.

It was reported to Messrs Downing and Morris last Saturday, that a little negro boy found a pocket book full of money near White Plains. Mr. Downing went immediately to White Plains and saw the negro boy, who he said that a negro man by the name of Brockman had thrown him down and taken the book from him, saying as he did so that it made him a rich negro. Mr. Downing saw Brockman and he denied it, bitterly, but several of the children verified the statement of the little negro boy. Mr. Downing had the negro arrested and sent before Judge Crook, who placed his bond at $300. Some negroes went on the bond and Brockman is at large awaiting the action of the grand jury.

GEN. WILLIAM H. FORNEY.

Alabama mourns to-day over the new-made grave of one of her noblest purest sons. General Wm. H. Forney is no more. High on the brilliant record of Alabama's illustrious dead his honored name is written. A name that will not only gild the historic page, but whose pure radiance will allure aspiring youth to paths of virtue and renown.

Called forth in early manhood to serve his country, he mingled in affairs of State through many long eventful years, years marked by war and revolution, vicissitude and change. Amid the carnage and tumult of war, as well as in the no less tumultuous arena of political strife, he ever maintained the calm equipoise of a great mind and a lofty spirit. In "times that tried men's souls" he stood firm and undaunted, and calmly, bravely, as a hero should, he met the fierce shocks of adversity. After the dark tempest of revolution had cleared away, and a grateful country heaped its honors thick upon him, he basked in the sunshine of his well-deserved popularity with the same untroubled serenity that had borne the storm. He wore his honors with unassuming modesty, and in the dazzling glare of political preferment and promotion he never lost sight of the grand principles of truth, justice and patriotism.

In the columns of this paper, devoted to the interest of our State troops, it may not be amiss to notice one remarkable feature in the military career of the late General. Kind and generous in his feelings, accurate in his judgments, just in his dealings, courageous in battle, he enthroned himself in the affections of his soldiers. Too gallant to order them into dangers where he did not lead, too unselfish to enjoy as an officer comforts the humble private in the ranks could not share, he became the idol of those warm, loyal Southern hearts. On one occasion, when returning to his command, after a long absence on account of a dangerous wound, they greeted him with irrepressible enthusiasm, tossing their old wool hats high in the air and shouting, as with one mighty voice that pierced the clouds, "Forney, forever! Forney, forever!" Ah! young soldiers, is it not well worth your courage, your self-denial, your strict adherence to duty to become capable of arousing such enthusiasm as that of those you seek to serve? True and pure, just and benevolent, faithful to every trust, steadfast to duty, ever attentive to the calls of suffering humanity, his character furnishes an illustrious example, worthy the imitation of every young man who desires to serve well his generation and bequeath an unsullied name to posterity.

Such was the character of the man whom, whilst living, his countrymen delighted to honor, and whose memory they will teach their children to reverence. His work is done. After weary years of faithful toil in his country's service, broken down in body, but strong in mind and cheerful in spirit, he returned a few short weeks ago to the dearest, sweetest spot on earth to him. There, on the evening of January 16th, in the sacred quietude of his happy home, surrounded by those he loved best, the brave yet gentle spirit of the grand old hero calmly passed away! Quickly the wires flashed the intelligence all over this fair land, the land he served so long and loved so well. Letters, telegrams and "rais came from all quarters. All seemed anxious to show their veneration for the departed patriot, soldier and statesman. All bear testimony to his spotless record, the purity of his private life and his incorruptible integrity in public office. Notable amid many exquisite florals, was the offering from the Alabama delegation at Washington, "A pillow of rest," composed of white hyacinths and purple pansies, in the center of which the flowers were woven to form that significant word, Alabama. (Here We Rest. Military companies from Anniston escorted the remains to the cemetery. Stalwart men, who were soldier boys in his command, were active pallbearers, and wore gray-headed veterans, were honorary pallbearers. Old men wept and fair maidens scattered flowers, rare and sweet, over his hallowed grave. The evening in which we laid him down to rest was perfect. Standing upon the sunlit hill, and turning our gaze to the distant horizon, it seemed to us that we had never beheld a lovelier scene. The sun was gilding the western hills with glory, while the moon shone softly down from the eastern heights. Far below lay wood and vale and silver stream, all engirdled by majestic mountains. Over all this fair landscape was the spirit of peace, sweet peace, as if the benediction of heaven rested upon it. A fitting time, a fitting place, in which to lay to rest the mortal remains of him who has been rightly termed, "Alabama's best beloved."

LETTER FROM SAM SLIM.

OXFORD, ALA., Feb 28, '94. On last Sunday, while the snow fell, and the weather was bad, and going to church was dispensed with, and something to read was the thing to be looked up, Mrs. Slim, who is chairman of the ways and means committee at our house, brought forth some old papers among which was a copy of the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN dated May the 9th, 1891. The country was all excitement, the war was on, and the general opinion was that we could whip the yankees with oorn stalks. And we might have done it but they wouldn't fight us that way. In that paper is Jefferson Davis' proclamation to the Confederate Congress. Bill Arp's letter to "Mr. Linkhorn" in which he inquired who was keeping Harper's Ferry! It announced that it was "Published every Tuesday morning by J. F. Grant, at two dollars a year in advance;" still there is a notice in it to delinquent subscribers to pay up. Fielding Snow wanted hides to tan. Dr. C. J. Clark and Drs. J. C. Francis and M. W. Francis offer their professional services. Doctors of less attainment and proficiency now would hold up their hands in holy horror if their card should appear in a newspaper, or even if their sign should be swung in front of their office so that a stranger could tell where to find a doctor in time of need. There is published therein the proceedings of a county convention. E. L. Woodward was chosen president and J. F. Grant and Dr. C. J. Clark secretaries. Wm. Scott, Jas. B. Martin and Washington Williams were chosen delegates, and Wm. F. Bush, E. D. McClellan and William Johnson alternates. Fielding Love was Sheriff at that time, Alex. Woods was Probate Judge, and Wm. M. Eames was as he is now, and has been ever since, I believe, Register in Chancery. There are a great many other Alabama citizens mentioned, a very large majority of whom are dead as are all of those mentioned above except Capt. Wm. F. Bush and Capt. Wm. M. Eames. How many who read this article will be alive in 1926—thirty-two years from now! Surely "death is abroad in the land and the places that know us now will soon know us no more forever."

RAMBLING NOTES.

Our Piedmont Correspondent Writes Entertainingly

Gypsies and Toothache. She Says Some Good Things About a Piedmont Boy.

Oh the snow! The beautiful snow! On a preparatory coating of sleet it fell, and soon the earth and all stationary objects were hid in a decey covering, and the wooded hills gleamed in dazzling whiteness through the rain of falling flakes. There is something exhilarating about snow. It has no depressing effect like rain. The small boys were almost bursting with gladness, the girls every bit as wild, and the boys and girls of larger growth drove hither and thither in buggies set on runners, or hastily improvised sleds. Snowballing was the order of the day, and a merry, joyous spirit pervaded the town. It was truly a "beautiful snow." Falling lightly, softly, rapidly, with no wind or rain to mar its beauty.

Arthur Moody paid a flying visit to his father's house this week, on his way from Atlanta to Birmingham, where he has accepted a more lucrative position. Every body likes Arthur and none but good wishes follow him from his boyhood home; while his genial, sunny nature makes friends wherever he goes.

Miss Nellie Kiernan has returned from a long visit to Knoxville. She reports a gay time, until rumors of small-pox drove her homeward, on the day before leaving Knoxville, she came very near being a passenger on that ill-fated aerial car; and, while awaiting her turn, was a witness to the shocking accident.

Mrs. W. E. Jones of Atlanta is visiting her sister, Mrs. Johnson, Matron of the Seminary.

Not least, among the many advantages of this school, is the fact that such an excellent woman is in charge of the housekeeping.

The travelling public will remember that Mrs. Johnson kept Hotel in Cave Spring, and in Cedartown, for many years, also boarding houses in Atlanta and Piedmont; and not only is she a lady, both by birth and breeding, but one of the nearest housekeepers and best cooks in the land.

The "Irish Gypsies" have been with us this week.

"No," I said, "I have no money to spend on lace."

"Is it so? What a pity when I am offering such bargains! Will yeas only look at that now?—What an illigant bit of lace. Hand-made as yeas can see for yourself. Your neighbor up the strate took three yards of this piece, and there is but three left—just enough for a skirt. She sent me to you as she knew you was a woman of taste and judgment. An yeas can't take it, and I offering it at 50 cents a yard! What a pity! Only a dollar and a half for the piece, and I'll throw in enough of the pillow case lace for some shams, yis, and some narrow lace for yeas underclothes. What a bargain I offer yeas! Howly Mither! Yeas will never get such another chance.

Let me put in this piece, I'll measure it by me arm, and I have a long nose. Niver shall it be; said an Irishwoman is stigny Yeas have a sister-in-law up the street—yis, she told me yeas were leddy of taste and begged me to bring that bit of clumy. Hand-made. Made it meself in a dark room—on a cushion. See, it gathers on its own string. Yeas will never get such another chance to buy clumy at 50 cts a yard and this other worth the money thrown in. Made it meself, spun and bleached me own 'Bax, last yeas foriver. Somebody is coming in!

Take it all for one dollar and sell no one of such bargains! I paid the dollar for a quarters worth of lace. Did you do likewise?

The toothache! Has anybody had it besides myself? Misery loves company? Is it horrible to have a crawling, wriggling, twisting, red hot demon in your tooth gonging for the marrow of your bones?

He must be an 'imp of satan, for nothing comforts him like heat, and one cant always sit on the rug, baking their jaw till it blisters. Jumpity, Jump! Don't talk about the dentist, for pity sake, let me alone until this tooth gets easy. It is too sore to touch now.

Jumpity Jump! Yes, you know ow—the little imp is boring down, into the root. He bores till the tooth rises up, and you can't put your teeth together. Don't let anybody come in, you have no friends, don't want any, all you want is to get easy or die. You loathe conversation, you know now why the man committed that murder—he had the toothache and somebody kept talking to him. Why can't they do something for you? Get the creosote, camphor, oil of cloves, anything, even if it burns your mouth up, try to drug that sleepless imp. He is getting quieter. Hush, don't talk, be easy—and for pity sake let me alone.

The czarowitz, the eldest son of the Czar, and consequently the next in line of succession, is not his father's favorite son. His views are far too liberal toward the common people to please the autocratic Alexander.

In a recent address before the Playgoers' Club, of London, Rev. Stewart Headlam declared ballet dancing to be "an elaborate fine art, and one requiring intelligent and sympathetic study on the part of the spectators."

When Mr. Cleveland went into the presidential chair for the first time it was found that the cash in the treasury did not balance by 2 cents and the outgoing treasurer paid over this check for that amount. The newspaper talk about this occurrence has brought out the fact that this is not the smallest check in existence. In 1891 a savings bank in Cincinnati declared a dividend, and the amount due Harry Howes, a painter, was 1 cent. He received a check for it, indorsed it and gave it to Mr. Fred Moore, of that city, who persists in keeping it as a curiosity, much to the disgust of the bank, which wants it to come in, that its accounts may be balanced.—Pica-yune.

The casuist might say that there is such a thing as being too honest. A lawyer may be so honest with himself and true to his client as to lose a case. He might so thoroughly drill his witness that their testimony would appear parrot-like, and the impression be created on the minds of the jury that they "fixed." The "noblest Roman of them all" failed in his patriotic attempt to rid of tyrannical rule by being too honest and noble. If he had not permitted Antony to make that fatal oration, Brutus would have become ruler of the people instead of a fugitive from their vengeance. Cassius was not as honest as Brutus, but he was more of a politician. A man may have an opportunity to marry a rich woman and live in ease and luxury, but not loving her he may be so honest and true to himself as to prefer poverty and obscurity. A milkman might paint a water tank on his wagon instead of a cow, but such honesty would cause him to lose all his patrons.

The art of acting is the easiest of all the arts. The average man of ordinary intelligence can make a fair actor after a little training; for acting is but imitation. On the other hand it requires natural talent and long study to become a musician, an artist, or a sculptor. Every man is naturally more or less a mimic, just as a monkey is, and mimicry is the heart of the actor. The only originality about a play is with the dramatist. He must carve out the character and put thoughts in their heads and words in their mouths. It is easy enough to speak these words and thoughts so that people can understand them. Acting comes naturally to a man, for he is an actor all the time. The more natural he is the better is his acting. A dog will swim the first time he is thrown in the water, for he works his legs just as he does in walking, and thus keeps afloat.

SAM JONES ON FINANCE

A Mighty Storm is Always Preceded by a Dreadful Calm. His remedies for Existing Evils.

Chattanooga Times.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 22.—This article shall be devoted to the industrial conditions of our country.

The average writer can write something about almost anything. This subject, involving as it does, capital and labor, mind and muscle, is one of the which philosophers and statesmen have puzzled their brains, and as yet failed to carry us to wise conclusions.

This question, involving our railroads, our varied manufacturing, agricultural and mining interests and so on, is too broad to compass, and too intricate to explain.

Partial paralysis seems to have taken possession of all these industries. The lack of traffic with railroads, the lack of orders with manufacturing, the lack of demand for the produce of farmers and miners on the one side, and the lack of money on the other side, has turned the great flowing river into a sluggish bayou, and from every quarter is heard the cry, stagnation! stagnation!

Some of our wisest men attribute the present conditions in the industrial world to the money panic, started by the failure of the Baring Bros., nearly two years ago. Others attribute it to Wall Street, and the financiers of New York City clamoring for bonds and thereby precipitating the panic. Others say that the gold buggery and silver diggery discussions produced it. Others say the tinkering with the tariff has done it. Others say it's over-production along the lines of industrial life.

Who is right in their diagnosis? At the Tower of Babel, with all its confusion of tongues, there was no more confusion than there is among the wise men, as they seek to expound the causes of our present industrial troubles.

The want of demand all along the line, both for labor and for the products of labor is heartrending to him who has a heart. The deserted and silent manufacturing, rusting and creaking, while idle labor is talking and agitating, the silliness of the one and the commotion in the ranks of the other, precipitates a problem that can only be solved by the starting of the one which will quiet the other.

That capital has suffered, every man sees who has an eye to look upon the unparalleled shrinkage in stocks and bonds, in real estate, in goods and chattels—almost one-half. As we go through the list, we find that the capital of the capitalist has melted away.

There was not a good understanding between capital and labor when both were prosperous. The present conditions of things have brought about no more kindly relations.

The golden rule conscientiously adopted and practiced, "Do unto others as you would be done by," offers the only solution of the problems of the day. There never was a time in the history of man when every capitalist ought to be a philanthropist, and every laborer a benefactor, more than at present. It is not true of the laborer, as it was with Pat some years ago, when his neighbor proffered to get him work, "Faith," he says, "it is not work I want, it's wages." Men want work and need work as bad as they want and need wages.

The father and husband walks out of his almost-bustling home early in the morning, searches for work all day, comes back at night having accomplished nothing, sits down to his supper table and sees the scanty meal disappear to satisfy the hunger of his loved ones, and knows that tomorrow will be but a repetition of today's experience, until the wolf shall finally take possession of his home. The stoutest heart, the steadiest nerve, the most resolution will, will sooner or later succumb to the situation and drive him to despair.

Relief societies have done much and may do more for the poor and suffering, but nothing can minister to the mind, and satisfy the manhood except employment.

On the other hand, the capitalist who looks upon his idle mills and mines, on his railroad trains empty; the farmer who sees his fields and stock with no demand for his products unless it be at a price less than the cost of production—shrinkage and paralysis on all sides—is as morose and unhappy

GOOD THINGS TO READ

Christ is God's idea of a man. It is better to suffer than to sin. Sin is most fascinating when it hides its face.

Opposing God's truth is rebellion against God.

There can be no real life where there is no love.

All sins are big, no matter how small they look.

It lightens a duty to resolve to do it cheerfully.

A civil tongue is a better weapon than a bowie knife.

Those who would lead others should always look up.

Love is the greatest of all things, because it gives all things.

It takes temptation to show us how much we need Christ.

When you bid your sin good-bye don't shake hands with it.

One of the devil's hiding places is behind a pile of money.

Every dollar in a good man's pocket has the name of God on it.

God made the heart of man so big that this world is too small to fill it.

The man who lives only for himself is engaged in very small business.

To be all the time feeling for feeling is a poor way to promote religious life.

No man is pleasing God who does not love his neighbor as he does himself.

Keep your heart full of sunshine, and God will soon give a face to match it.

It is the religion that shines at home against which the devil fights the hardest.

The man who would have done so and so if he had been there, never gets there.

Some people think it worth while to try to get religion in the hands and feet.

There is no such thing as the joy of the Lord in the heart in which there is no faith.

There is more help in an ounce of encouragement than there is in a ton of advice.

A fool will build a house without windows, and then blame God because he has to live in the dark.

People who have a good opinion of themselves will tell you that the devil is not such a bad fellow.

"Give and it shall be given unto you," is a promise that shows how anxious God is to make us all rich.

The man who repents on a sick bed from which he recovers, generally backslides before he pays his doctor's bill.

A man who unconsciously does much to sour the milk of human kindness, is the fellow who snores in the sleeping car.

The only people who oppose God's way are those who would have to give up something like an eye or a hand to walk in it.

The father who does not put good reading matter in the hands of his children has never done any real praying for their salvation.

Man has been so cruel to woman that it is certainly remarkable that he has never bowed her for his rib.

The Empress of Russia spends a good deal of her time in printing letters on a typewriter from the Czar's dictation. The Czar has himself learned to use the machine but his large fingers are necessarily less deft than his wife's.

THE BEST COWS FOR BUTTER

None of the thoroughbred breeds of cows have the exclusive production of fine butter. What are known as common cows, if well selected and fed as they should be, will make butter in no way inferior to the best. The first premium has gone far more times to the skill of the man or woman who made it than the breed of cows. Seventy-five per cent. butter is more nearly a fact affected by the rich than a reward for any noticeable superiority of better. The skill in making, the dainty manner of putting it up, and the exact regularity of supplying the fastidious customer, are about the only difference. Some recent tests seem to show that the milk of a herd of mixed bloods, well fed and cared for, is the source of the finest flavored butter. Where the high bloods excel is in persistent milking and high grade of milk.—American Agriculturist.

COUNCILMAN LETTER
THE CAMPAIGN BOARD STARTS THE CALL TO VOTERS.
(The following circular letter has been addressed by the Educational Campaign Board to all the teachers in the county.)
By direction of the State Superintendent of Education, Mr. Miller, our County Superintendent, has appointed the undersigned the "Campaign Board of Education." of this county.
The duty and purpose of this board is: First, to secure a full vote at the polls in August, next, on the "Hendley Amendment," and, if successful, in this year to work for the tax.
The "Hendley Amendment" is,
as you know, to set aside that part of the State Constitution which prohibits the taxation of any portion of the State by that portion for special purposes, and, in its stead, to allow townships, if they choose, to vote a special tax upon themselves for school purposes.
This tax not to exceed two and one half mills on the dollar, and one and one half cents on the hundred dollars of taxable property. The money thus obtained is to be turned over to the school trustees of the township, who will divide it between the races according to the taxes paid in by its members.
In order to allow the townships to vote this tax, this amendment must receive a majority of all the votes cast in the August Election.
Observe: A failure to vote on this question in the August Election is not only a vote against the tax but against allowing any township in the State to be so taxed.
The vote taken in August, next, is not on the tax as a tax, but on the question: Shall or shall not a township be allowed to vote a tax upon itself for school purposes?
Those townships which do not want the special tax, should, at any rate, vote for the amendment, in order to let the townships that do want the tax have a chance to vote for it. As the Constitution now stands, no township in the State can vote a special tax; with the amendment in force, any township can place this school tax upon themselves, or not, as they see fit.
Thus giving to townships the same power that is now granted to cities and towns. We urge you, therefore, to bring and keep this matter before your schools, your patrons, and the community.
Let us see what are some of the advantages of this local school taxation. In the first place, we are, as a people, wedded to the idea of a free public school system.
The Northern and Western States have free schools for nine months in the year. No charges are made for any purpose—for houses, furniture, fuel, teachers, or books.
These expenses are largely met by the school districts, the members of which vote a tax upon themselves to supplement the State appropriation, which is never more than one half the amount raised by local taxation. The Southern States are unfortunately behind their northern and western sisters in this respect. Our State gives liberally to the public schools, but does not allow this donation to be supplemented by the school community.
The consequence is that many patrons of the schools consider it a hardship to pay for the teacher after the school fund has been exhausted; and, consequently, take their children from school, whereas, they would continue to send them
so long as the public money lasted.
If then by this local taxation we could keep the schools open nine months in the year, great would be the advantage to the rising generation! You all know how difficult it is to get any improved school appliances or furniture, and how annoying it is both to yourselves and pupils when so many different kinds of text books are used.
These difficulties and annoyances may be easily met by this plan of township taxation. If every taxpayer does his part according to his means no one man will be overburdened, and all will reap the fruits of the measure. Suppose if tax of one mill is raised to buy school books for that township.
The books are bought from the publishers at a reduced price, are loaned to the children, who are required to take care of them and to return them in good order when they finish them or when the school closes. If the book is damaged, the child must pay for the damage.
A school thus equipped would relieve the teacher of many annoyances and the patrons of the heavy expense in buying new books for his children. As to the advantages to be derived from this measure by the taxpayer, the majority of the tax payers would pay less in local taxation than they would if they sent their children to school and paid the regular tuition for the same length of time. The property holders and those who pay the largest taxes would be willing to pay the additional tax to benefit the community and to increase the value of their property. For instance, add so much to the value of property as good schools of the county should throw yourselves into this work of advancing the advancement of education with zeal and order.
Talk about it in your school. Get your pupils to thinking about it.
Have them talk it to their parents, encourage discussion, and try to arouse a general enthusiasm upon the subject. Great the work and great the benefit therefrom! Let it all be done from a patriotic standpoint, looking directly to the good of the children of this land.

Let no partisan spirit enter into the discussion. Show the people that the amendment was unanimously adopted at the last Legislature. That the "Alabama Educational Association," composed of members of all political parties, unanimously adopted the measure, that our County Institute has adopted it, and that wherever sufficient light has been brought to bear upon the subject it has been favorably received. Our great fear is that the amendment may fail from a neglect to vote upon the amendment, and not from votes cast against it. Therefore, use your best efforts to get the measure before the voters of your community, interest the influential men, get them to take an active part in the campaign, but do not let politics creep into the measure. It has no political bearing, and the different parties could do no better thing for this state than to vote their full strength for the "Hendley Amendment."
That the work may be carried forward throughout the state, and that nothing may be left undone to bring this measure to a successful close, the "Alabama Educational Association" has organized a "State Campaign Fund Committee," whose duty is to circulate tracts and other literature upon the subject throughout the state. This of course costs money, and, as the teachers are most directly interested in this measure, they are expected to contribute to this fund and to solicit others to contribute.
Mr. Miller will call a meeting of the Institute, next April, between the first and tenth, at which time it is hoped that each teacher will be able to make a favorable report on the work done by himself on this amendment. At which time, you are also requested to bring your contribution to the Campaign Fund.
The work before you is important. Put the ball in motion now, and keep it rolling until after August. Show the state that the teacher is a power in the land.
Make your influence to be felt for good. Press onward, hoping all things, believing all things, doing all things, and great will be your reward.

HE FOUND HIS GUNS.
The death of Maj. Henry C. Semple recalls an interesting incident during a visit to Augusta a few years ago.
At the surrender of two of the guns in his command were captured, and in the confusion of those times he failed to discover what disposition was made of them. It was during President Grant's administration that the old commander began to trace up the guns, and he had an order from the president for their surrender to him by the officer in possession of them. It was a fruitless search. The guns failed to materialize, and years passed without without any knowledge of their whereabouts.
Several years ago Major Semple visited Augusta, and was the guest of Hon. Patrick Walsh. During his stay he was driven over the city and to the Hill. While passing through the arsenal grounds his eyes noted the weapons of war so familiar, but none seemed to have any greater interest for him than for any commander who had stood behind a battery that belched forth death and destruction. But as the carriage passed the commander's residence he leaped forth and with a cry of joy put his arms around one and then another of the guns that stand like sentinels guarding the peaceful quiet of those famous grounds. Though many years had passed his eye had not forgotten the familiar shape of those two cannons that it had been his proud privilege to command.
It would be a touching tribute to the old soldier could permission be secured to fire one last salute from those old guns at the sad hour when the earth claims him as her own.
Maj. Semple was a man held in high esteem by every one who knew him. A convert of the Catholic faith he was ever a devout church member. He was especially blessed in his children, who inherited from their father and mother the lofty principles that animated them through life.
One son is one of the most learned priests in the Jesuit order. Another was district attorney to Col.
Fellows in New York at the time of his death, which came shortly after a brilliant wedding when Miss Conder became his wife. A third son is an officer in the navy, and one daughter has sought the seclusion of the convent. Maj. Semple has many friends in Augusta who will mourn his death. Augusta,

THE STATE CONVENTION
THE CALL ISSUED BY THE DEMO-CRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.
To the Democrats of Alabama:
A convention of the Democratic and Conservative Party of Alabama is hereby called to meet on the 22nd day of May, 1894, at the State Capitol, in the city of Montgomery, for the purpose of nominating State officers, to be voted for at the general election in this State.
Under the resolution, adopted by the last State Convention, fixing the representation from each county upon a population basis, the respective counties of the State are entitled to the following number of delegates in said State Convention:

Total 121.
Each County Executive Committee shall decide for its county whether the delegates to the State Convention shall be selected by primary election, beat meetings, county conventions or mass meetings. All primary election and beat meetings which elect delegates to county conventions shall be held on Saturday, the 12th day of May, and all primary elections which are held to elect delegates to the State Convention and all county conventions or mass meetings that they held for this same purpose shall be held on Wednesday, May 16th.
No delegates to the Congressional Conventions shall be elected at the same time that delegates are elected to the State Convention. Delegates to the Congressional Conventions shall be elected in such manner as the respective County Executive Committee shall determine, on Saturday, the 20th day of August, 1894, and the Congressional Conventions of the several districts in the State shall be held at such places as the respective Congressional Executive Committees may determine, on Tuesday Sept. 4th, 1894.
All qualified voters shall be entitled, and are requested, to participate in the primaries, beat meetings, conventions and mass meetings of the party, who come under any one of the following classifications, to-wit:
First—All those who voted in the last National election for Cleveland and Stevenson.
Second—Those Democrats who would have voted for Cleveland and Stevenson in the last National election but were prevented from so voting because they were not able to go to the polls.
Third—All those who will be

CHAIRMAN WILSON.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 24.
J. H. Crandall, a business man of this city, arrived here to day from Agua Caliente, Mexico, and states that when he left that city on Thursday, it was reported on good authority that Congressman Wilson, who had stopped over there to take baths, was in a dying condition, and that the physicians who were attending him had given up all hope of his being able to leave the place alive.
When Mr. Wilson passed through El Paso he was a very sick man, but he exerted himself to respond to the many invitations showered upon him by the people of that city. In his exceedingly weak condition the baths had a very injurious, instead of a beneficial effect.
Washington, Feb. 24.—Secretary
Gresham to-day received from Mr.
Crittenden, the United States Consul General in the City of Mexico the following telegram, concerning Hon. William L. Wilson:
Mr. Wilson has developed a marked typhoid fever. General condition grave, though fever as yet of a mild type. Dr. Mallet Prevost, whom I sent from here to Agua Calientes (Hot Springs) to see him has had him removed to Guajalajara, which he considers the location which will give him the best sanitary surroundings possible in Mexico. The bringing him to this city would be more dangerous. He shall have the best attention.
DAIRY SUGGESTIONS.
Do not keep the bull fat. Keep him strong in bone and muscle.
Feed him little corn.
Keep the heifer calf growing right along, and that cannot be done if she is not made comfortable in winter.
Anything like roots, cabbage, peas, sweet corn and bran is suitable for feeding the cows when the pasture is short.
Take the very best care of the common cow, and if she has any thing in her she will surprise you at what even a common cow can do when she is encouraged.
If a cow gets rheumatism or a cold at the beginning of winter, it may stick to her all through the cold weather. Keep her warm and well bedded, therefore.
When a creamery is to be started do not be in too much of a hurry to make the contract with the bul-lifer. Make inquiry as to where you can get an outfit the cheapest.
One of our editorial prophets declares that the time will come when butter will not be washed at all. He claims that by this means the aromatic odors are washed away. We do not believe that water helps butter.—Farmers' Voice.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS.
Caused by Carelessness.
The majority of people die sooner than they should. Evidence of this fact is growing daily. Warning says: "Disease is not a consequence of life; it is due to untoward conditions of living—neglect, abuse, want."
Dr. Stephen Smith, on the same subject, says: "Man is made to health and long life; disease is unnatural, death, except from old age, is preventable and death is preventable by human agencies." This is almost undeniably true of death resulting from heart disease. Careless over-exercising, immoderate use of tea, coffee, tobacco, alcohol, or other stimulants are generally the cause of this disease, and indifference to its progress results in sudden death, or long sickness ending in death. By the newspapers it can be seen that many prominent and hundreds of persons have died from heart disease in passing days.
If you have any of the following symptoms: shortness of breath, palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells, pain in shoulder, side, or arm, swollen ankles, etc., begin treatment immediately for heart disease. If you delay, the consequences may be serious.
For over 20 years Dr. Franklin Miles the eminent specialist has made a profound study of heart disease, and has discovered many of the leading disorders in that direction are due to him. His New Heart Cure is absolutely the only reliable remedy for the cure of heart disease, as it is proved by thousands of testimonials from grateful persons who have used it.
James A. Pain, editor of the Carry-Po Leader, writes: "After an agonizing recovery from three months of illness, I feel on the street unconscious from heart disease. In one month from the time I was unable to walk across my room,
I am now able to walk 30 to 40 miles a day.
I then used Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and at once became stronger. After using six bottles I was able to work as usual and walk a mile every day, my pulse ranging from 60 to 80." Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold by all druggists and medicine stores. It is a small, neat bottle, 10¢ each, or 50¢ per bottle. It is postpaid free from charges or freight charges. Write Dr. Miles, Little Rock, Ark., for a free book at druggists, or by mail.

What is
CASTORIA
Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless, unobtainable for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil.
It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting, Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osceola,
Lowell, Mass.
"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other harmful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kneeland, Conway, Ark.
Allen C. Smith, Pres.,
The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

CASTORIA.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as a preservative for many years known to me."
Dr. A. A. Anson, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

ALABAMA REPUBLICANS.

WHAT A PROMINENT MEMBER OF THE PARTY SAYS OF COMING EVENTS.

ATLANTA, Feb. 27.—Hon. Ben. de Lemos of Alabama is registered at the "Aragon." To your correspondent, in reply to questions, he stated that "the Republican Executive Committee meets in Birmingham March 29th, 1894."

"Will the convention, if called, endorse Kolb?"

Said he emphatically, "It will not."

"Will a State ticket be nominated?"

"That I cannot state. I do not know, but I certainly hope so."

"How about the committee of 199 appointed at the conference in Birmingham?"

"There is no trouble about that. The main work of that committee is to unite the Stevens faction, and that will be done. Republicans in Alabama will be united; we will have a thorough organization; we will not play second fiddle; we will convince our opponents—the regulars and the Jeffs—that Republican principles are a very live issue, and these principles will place either McKinley or Read in the Presidential chair."

"How about the proposition of the National Committee to reduce your representation in the next convention?"

"Well, that is really a new wrinkle, but I tell you if Republicans follow any more false gods, I don't care how much reduction there is in the next representation in the National convention, because that convention ought to be represented by Republicans. If we support the Jeffs we will be known as better Democrats than the Jeffs. That is what the Jeffs claim when it suits their purposes."

"Should Republicans nominate a ticket, what are their chances for success?"

"Just as good as the Jeffersonians' chances, and a little better, because the Republican vote is larger than theirs."

Mexico, Mar. 1.—To Gresham, Secretary of State, Washington: Just heard from Wilson. Temperament normal, general condition good, convalescence sure, but slow; cannot be imprudent; needing good nourishment and rest; out of all danger.

IN THE TOWN

Home for Small For a Separate Road.

Three New Stores and Plenty of Trade. Col. Oates, of the University, was here on Monday.

Three new stores in one week. Col. W. J. Alexander, of Piedmont, was here Thursday.

Months Lecture. H. G. Earnest spent the week in the city.

John Y. Henderson has been appointed registrar for this beat.

The Christian Enterprise will appear on the 15th of this month.

John Forney, of the University Law School, is at home for a few days.

Col. and Mrs. Jno. M. Caldwell, of Anniston, were visitors on Wednesday.

Mrs. J. A. Gaboury is very ill at her home in the western part of the city.

Preston Stevenson has gone into the general merchandise business on the West side.

Editor Wickes, of the Piedmont Inquirer, was in the city for a few hours on Saturday last.

The "Parsonage Society" met in the pastor's study at the Methodist church Monday afternoon.

"Hog or no hog" will be the issue in the coming city election. We prefer plenty of hog.

Contractor John Journey is going to make a "crap" and we predict that it will be a good one.

Messrs. C. A. Sharpe and A. F. Tomlin, prominent Piedmontese, were here on business Wednesday.

The roll of the Epworth League contains the name of nearly every young man in Jacksonville and the girls, too, of course.

Joe H. Privett has recovered from a slight indisposition and is off on a commercial tour of Gadsden, Attala, and other cities.

Mayor W. J. Brock, of Piedmont, was in the city during the week. Col. Brock is prominently spoken of for the lower house.

Ullman Bros., of Anniston, bid for business with good goods and low prices. Read their change of advertisement. Their Spring Stock has arrived.

President Forney dismissed school for a few hours on Wednesday in order that the pupils might attend the funeral of Mrs. Allday.

Mr. W. A. Knighten, of Knighten's Mill, Ala., has recently purchased an interest in the marble works of S. F. Lively at this place.

Mr. A. D. Glass is recovering from a serious attack of fever. We hope to see him at his desk in the State Normal School soon. He will graduate in June.

A pleasant party of Annistonians consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Carson, Charlie Sawyer, Tom Carson and Walter Jones spent Sunday in Jacksonville.

A certain pretty Jacksonville girl has forsown playing cards and rolling the ivory dice for the latter reason. This is not such a conventional old place after all.

Lively & Knighten, the tombstone men, have just received a shipment of handsome monuments. Two or three of especially beautiful design are on exhibition at their shop. Call and look at them.

Dr. Crook says he sells 50,000 cigarettes in a little or no time to the bright youth around Jacksonville, and it is to be supposed that he is helping them not smoking.

Messrs. J. M. and J. C. Sullivan, of McMinnville, Tenn., have returned to that place after disposing of 17 fine mules in and around Jacksonville. That doesn't look like hard times.

Advertising placed in the Republican about the second week in March always pays well. Think over this little piece of information well. Our "ad man" will be around to see you before long.

E. E. Forbes, the music man of Anniston, was here Thursday. His advertisement will be found on another page. He says he has no cause to complain of "dull sales and poor collections." He advertises in more than fifty newspapers in the State.

Squire E. M. Reid, of Morrisville, was in town Wednesday, and says the prospects for a big Oates crop are good in his section of the county. He is going down to Anniston today to become personally acquainted with the one armed hero and will sit at his right hand in Jacksonville next Monday.

The ladies of Jacksonville and vicinity are earnestly urged to attend at Col. Oates' speech in the courthouse here Monday. Seats will be reserved for them.

A new store has been opened up in the REPUBLICAN block in the Old Carpenter store. Gordon Frank is manager, Floyd Henderson and Bill Wilkerson, clerks.

Also Roberts has been running a dray line between this city and Jacksonville for the past week and one. Anniston wholesale house is giving him all the work he can do. The freight rates on the East Tennessee are said to be not what they ought to be and it is cheaper to haul through the country than send by rail. Hot Blast.

A GOOD WOMAN GONE.

There was universal sorrowing in Jacksonville when the news came that Mrs. C. A. Allday, wife of Rev. C. A. Allday, died at her home five miles southwest of this city, on Tuesday. It was only a little while ago that she was enjoying the best of health and had promise of a long life of happiness and good works, and at the time of her death, few of her friends knew that serious illness had come upon her. On Wednesday morning the remains were conveyed to the Methodist church in this city where Rev. T. G. Slaughter performed the burial service. He spoke of the beautiful life of the departed sister, her high moral character, her devotion to the cause of Christ, and spoke words of condolence to the grief stricken husband and sorrowing relatives and friends. At half past one the sad procession repaired to the cemetery, where, in a quiet lovely spot, she was gently laid to rest. It seemed so sad to put away beneath the sod, on this supremely beautiful day, a lovely woman; but how infinitely sweeter and better than anything earth can give are the joys of a life long christian at God's right hand.

METHODIST SUPER.

The Methodist Aid Society will give a banquet at the Iron Queen Hotel, Tuesday evening March 13th, the proceeds to pay for repairs on the Parsonage. An interesting program has been prepared of music, recitations, etc., and the guests will be delightfully entertained. Admission 40 cents. Everybody cordially invited. Young men must bring their sweethearts.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE

The following program will be rendered at the regular meeting of the Epworth League at the M. E. church, Friday evening, March 16th.

- 1.—Song by the choir.
- 2.—Speech, Mr. W. B. Hammond.
- 3.—Recitation, Miss F. E. Coker.
- 4.—Song, Miss Mary Greer Caldwell.
- 5.—Essay, Miss Grace Walker.
- 6.—Song, By the choir.
- 7.—Reading, T. M. Alexander.
- 8.—Recitation.—Miss Lillie Weems.
- 9.—Essay, Miss B. M. Haley.
- 10.—Song, by the choir.
- 11.—Recitation, Miss Kate Hammond.
- 12.—Song, by Miss Ida Arnold and B. E. Frank.

JUBAL A. EARLEY DIES.

GORDON'S LETTER TO CONFEDERATES—STORY OF HIS LIFE.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The following order has been issued: Headquarters United Confederate Veterans.

New Orleans, La., Mar. 8, 1894. (General Orders No. 120.)

It becomes the painful duty of the General Commanding to announce to the survivors of the Confederate armies the death of another great chieftain of the lost cause.

Lieutenant General Jubal A. Early, closed his long and eventful career on the 2nd inst. at his home in Lynchburg, Va.

A truly representative American, he illustrated in his person with the highest distinction the dual service of citizen and soldier; eminent in early life for his forensic ability on the hustings, in the forum and legislative halls of his native State, at the call to arms he always promptly entered the service of his country, and became a hero of three wars. His name is enrolled as one of the most conspicuous in the annals of our civil strife in which he was distinguished for his strong convictions, high order of skill as a commander, coupled with unflinching personal courage. Associated from first to last with the operations of the Army of Northern Virginia, his corps participated in most of the brilliant and fateful struggles of that renowned command, and his name will be forever associated in history with Lee and Jackson.

By order of J. B. Gordon, General Commanding. GEORGE MOORMAN, Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff.

GENERAL EARLY'S CAREER.

Jubal Anderson Early was born in Franklin County, Va., November 3d, 1816, and was consequently in the seventy-eighth year of his age. He was appointed cadet to West Point and graduated in 1837. He was then assigned as a lieutenant of artillery at Fort Monroe. He served in the Florida war in 1837-1838. He was conspicuous for his courage and determination and more than one veteran army officer predicted for the gallant young lieutenant a brilliant future. But fearing a life of inactivity in the army after the close of this war, he resigned his commission in 1838 and returned home, where he studied law and entered upon its practice, in which he became very successful, his practice extending over a number of counties. He took an active interest in all public questions and was soon called upon to serve his State in the Legislature, of which body he was a member in 1841-42. He was elected Commonwealth's attorney of Franklin County in 1842-47, and again in 1848-52.

During the Mexican war he was Major of a Regiment of Virginia volunteers, serving from January, 1847, till August, 1848. He was acting governor of Monterey in May and June, 1847, and after the disbanding of the army, returned to the practice of law.

At the breaking out of the civil war he promptly tendered his services to the Governor of Virginia, and, as Colonel, commanded a brigade at the battle of Bull Run.

In the battle of Williamsburg, May 5, 1862, he received a wound that was supposed to be mortal. He was promoted to Brigadier General, and in May, 1863, commanded the division that held the lines at Fredericksburg, while Lee was fighting the battle of Chancellorsville. He also commanded a division at Gettysburg, and was finally promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-General.

In 1864 he was ordered to the Valley of the Shenandoah where his operations were at first successful. In July he crossed the Potomac, gained the battle of Monocacy, and threatened Washington, but was obliged to retreat.

Toward the end of the month a portion of his cavalry advanced into Pennsylvania as far as Chambersburg, which, by his orders, they burned. He was afterward, 19th of September, defeated by Sheridan on the Opequan and again at Fisher's Hill three days later.

On Oct. 19 General Early surprised the Federal forces at Cedar Creek in the absence of General Sheridan, but the latter, having arrived in the afternoon, rallied his army and managed to be successful. General Early lost some of his artillery and trains. In March, 1865, he was defeated by General Custer at Waynesboro, and a few days later was relieved by Lee from the command in the valley.

General Lee said in his letter of March 30, 1865: "Your reverses in the valley of which the public and the army judge chiefly by the results, have, I fear, impaired your influence both with the people and the soldiers, and would greatly add to the difficulties which will, under any circumstances, attend our military operations, in Southwest Virginia. While my own confidence in your ability, zeal, and devotion to the cause is unimpaired, I have, nevertheless, felt that I could not oppose what seems to be the current opinion without injustice to your reputation and injury to service."

After the close of the war he went to Europe, where he spent some time, and on his return resumed the practice of law in Virginia.

REPUBLICAN JOB OFFICE

Is the place to get your work executed. Beautiful type faces, Gordon presses (2), and capable printers enable us to turn out splendid work. Letter heads, programmes, blanks, invitations, and all classes of printing done in original and tasty designs. We work cheap. Give us a call or write for samples.

Jacksonville, Ala.

He subsequently became one of the managers of the Louisiana Lottery. He has always evinced great interest in all matters appertaining to America's greatest war. He was active in organizing the Association of the Army of Northern Virginia, and was its president. He was also president of the Southern Historical Society and published a pamphlet entitled "A Memoir of the Last Year of the War for Independence in the Confederate States."

General Early, while never seeking notoriety, gained a great deal of it owing to his readiness at all times to defend the cause for which he fought. That cause had few more devoted followers. He has always worn the Confederate grey. Had he been a man of smaller calibre he might have had some hard feelings against General Lee for relieving him of his command, but, on the contrary, he has revered the memory of Lee and Jackson, and has never failed to pay warm tributes to them.

Of the twenty-one lieutenant-generals commissioned by the Confederate Government seven are now living, as follows: Longstreet, Stephen D. Lee of Mississippi, Simon A. Buckner of Kentucky, Representative Wheeler of Alabama, Senator Wade Hampton of South Carolina, and A. P. Stewart of the war record office at Washington.

The collar is the most important part of the harness. If a collar is too large it will chafe; if too small it will choke. It costs no more to get a collar that fits than to get one too small or too large. Don't torture a horse with a misfit collar.

POLITICAL PIE

The following notice is tacked up in various places around Jacksonville:

The undersigned Registrar for the City of Jacksonville, Ala., hereby gives notice that he has been appointed by the Mayor of said City, to register the qualified voters of said City and will proceed to register said voters of said City at the Jacksonville Hotel, in Jacksonville, Ala., on the 2nd Monday in March, 1894.

The same being the 12th day of said month and will continue the Registration of said voters for six days from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on each day. Every elector is required to register, notwithstanding any former registration, to be entitled to vote in the municipal election.—S. J. STEVENSON, Registrar.

PROF. JOHN O. TURNER.

Prof. John W. Abercrombie, of Anniston, will be a candidate before the convention at Montgomery on the 22nd day of May, for State Superintendent of Education. Prof. Abercrombie has labored well for the cause of education in Calhoun county, and we know of no man more eminently fitted for the responsible place now held by Hon. J. G. Harris. It has been sometime, too, since Calhoun furnished a State officer.

Monday next, Monday, March 12th, is the day Col. Wm. C. Oates will speak at the courthouse in this city. Every democrat in the country round about should come in and hear him expound true democratic doctrine. Large and enthusiastic audiences have greeted him all over north Alabama, and Jacksonville will prove no exception. 11:30 a. m. is the hour.

Register so that you may vote in the municipal election on the first Monday in April.

Lawyer Joe Arnold has ably carried the keys of the city for a year. He is not too old for a second term.

IN COUNTY COURT

Young Stovall Admitted to Ball in the Sum of $600.

Many Witnesses Examined and Cross-examined. Lawyers Martin and Caldwell Well Won.

The trial of Young Stovall, charged with the murder of James Martin at Francis Station the first week in January, on a writ of habeas corpus, called in County court on Tuesday morning was intensely interesting from start to finish. The courthouse contained the relatives, friends and neighbors of the murdered man and the accused murderer, and the testimony was listened to with bated breath.

Judge Crook called the court to order in the circuit court room at 1:30. On his right hand sat Attorneys J. J. Arnold and D. D. McLeod for the prosecution with Thomas Martin as counsel. On the left Lawyers Caldwell and Martin for the defense with Young Stovall and his father.

The first witness called was Miss Mollie Martin, who was present at the killing, in behalf of the state; then followed Katie Martin, Mandy Martin, Mrs. Eva Martin, wife of the deceased, Dave Macon, G. H. Easterwood, W. O. Phillips, Zeek Griffin, Jack McQuirt, Jno. Hamilton, Silas Grant, J. F. Usry, B. J. Little, John Burgess, Mac Bulard, Charley Phillips, Jerry Wright, T. M. Martin, J. C. Little.

Then followed for defense: W. A. Bell, Elbert Carr, R. F. Jackson, J. R. Caldwell, J. W. Bagley, E. Aiken, John Aiken, John Echols, Mrs. Echols, Mat Griffin, Mrs. Griffin, Mrs. Sarah Wright, E. P. Griffin, E. Griffin.

Thursday evening after the evidence was all in and able speeches had been made by the attorneys on either side, Judge Crook placed the amount of the bond at $600. The bond will probably be made in a few days and Stovall will again breathe free air.

The ludicrous incidents of the trial and the quaint manner in which some of the testimony was given would fill volumes.

Mr. McLeod very much embarrassed an auburn haired young gentleman by asking if he "did not sometimes go a-courting." A nod of the head was the only answer, words failed him.

One old gentleman knew a great deal about township lines, sections and quarter-sections, and insisted on enlightening the court.

No direct testimony was introduced, no motive for the killing shown other than a drunken fight more than a year ago, and the evidence against Stovall is all purely circumstantial.

PROF. JOHN O. TURNER.

The name of Prof. John O. Turner, of St. Clair, who is a candidate for the democratic nomination for the office of state superintendent of education, is, we are glad to notice, well received by the press of the state. This is an important office, and one which should be filled by a man well qualified to perform the manifold duties of the office. Every citizen who desires the welfare and prosperity of Alabama, as every good citizen does, is conscious that a good system of common schools is an important factor in bringing about an era of prosperity. The present incumbent, Major Harris, has filled the office ably and well, and would undoubtedly continue to do so, if elected; but as it is a rule of the democratic party not to nominate any man for office a third time in succession, it will become necessary to nominate a gentleman of like ability to succeed him.

Prof. John O. Turner is in every way qualified to do so. He is an able educator, a thorough scholar, a gentleman of good address and an unswerving democrat. We know of no man better qualified to fill the position or more deserving of being the nominee of the democratic party for the important position of state superintendent of education.—Blount County News-Dispatch.

SANBY TO INGERSOLL.

"If in this life only we have hope * * * we are of all men most miserable."—1 Corinthians: xv, 19.

I heard you last night, Colonel Robert, You handled your subject with care The words from your mouth flowed like honey, As you 'jollied' poor dead old Voltaire.

I have never disputed your talent, And although you have fallen from Grace, And do not believe in the Bible, What Book

Do You Give

In its place!

Some say that you lecture for money, Well, parsons will preach for the same.

Neither yourself nor the parsons, Can satisfy hunger with 'fame.' But what I am anxious to get at— As a lawyer, please take up my case, If God is a myth and misnomer, What God

Do You Give

In His place,

I'm doubtful about my religion— 'Tis true I'm not burdened with much—

For I'm 'mixed' on the creeds of the churches, And 'fogged' by the free thinking Dutch.

Voltaire I admire as a student, But in none of his works can I trace Where he helps us along with our future—

He Takes— But Leaves

Nought In its place!

I've just read your oration on Con- kling, It is masterly, scholarly, grand—

As a tear-tearer, Bob, you're a daisy, And can beat any man in the land; But I'm anxious to wind up in heav'n

When on earth I have finished my race, If you take my Elysium from me

What Abobe

Do You Give

In its place!

You remind me of men who are bathing

(We all of us want to be clean)— We undress ere we plunge in the water

And strongly object to be seen. If some one had stolen our clothing, We'd never again show our face, If the thief had departed and left us

No pants. No hat

In its place!

What use are your doubts and dis- sentions? They bother a man all his life.

When peace by the Bible is offered, Why lie on a pallet of strife? Don't imagine I'm mad when I tell you

I think, Bob, you're off of your base, When you take from the patriot his country

And Give Him

No Laud

In its place!

I'm no hog—and perhaps I'd refuse it

If offered the whole of the earth; For our dollars we cannot take with us.

No matter how much we are worth, I have been at the bedside of Chris- tians,

And seen the sweet smile on their face, As they thought of the home that awaits them—

Can You Give

Such A home

In its place!

But, pshaw! You're as good as they make 'em!

We must all, in this life, play a part; And I've only to look in your face, Bob,

To see you're a great, noble heart, To scoop in the ducats by talking

Is not an eternal disgrace; But—our mothers are dead—and we'll meet them

There, Bob!—You Know The Place.

Zola used to be very fat. To reduce his weight he abstained from drinking at his meals for two months, and in that time got rid of thirty-six pounds of superfluous adipose.

Mrs. Adams is not only an artist of no mean skill herself, but is the model from whom her husband paints his red-haired women. Zola Adams, the young daughter of the family, has turned her artistic efforts into literary channels.

John Payne Savage, leading and prominent attorney of Centre, Cherokee county, died on the 24th inst., after a lingering illness of consumption, caused from pneumonia contracted while canvassing for Cleveland and Denison, aged 37 years. He was a son of Judge R. R. Savage, of Cherokee county.

The metropolitan and city police districts of London, according to "Whitaker's Almanac" for 1894, cover an area of 443,421 acres, with a population of 6,638,806. The total length of the streets of London reaches 8,460 miles.

Mercer county, Kentucky, has a curiosity in the person of Miss Nora Nave. She is a beautiful young lady of 22 years, and in form perfectly symmetrical. She is only three feet ten inches high, and weighs fifty-six pounds. Her father, William Nave is a farmer.

A new kind of fuel made from solidified petroleum and other materials is now being extensively manufactured in France. It is stated that its heat-producing properties are very great and that experiments to use it in engine furnaces have been of a most satisfactory nature.

When Galusha A. Grow, the newly elected congressman at large from Pennsylvania, entered politics Lincoln and Sherman were country lawyers, Grant an obscure captain on the Pacific coast and Garfield a mile driver on the Ohio Canal. He saw Clay and Webster in their old age and Sumner and Everett in their prime. Mr. Grow will be 70 next August.

Lord Salisbury always rises early and takes a walk before breakfast. When at Hatfield he generally goes for three or four miles before the rest of the family come down, and when in London has his constitutional in the Green Park. From breakfast till 1 o'clock he is absolutely alone, and at this time nothing short of a message from the Queen would reach him.

Henry B. Towne, the present head of the great Yale lock establishment, and recently prominently as a World's Fair Commissioner, is a good deal of an inventor himself, and takes out about a few patents. His substantial red brick country house in Stamford is on a democratic level with, and very near to, his large factory, that employs in favorable times over 1,000 hands.

Max O'Rell says he has found only two nations where women are the leaders—France and America. In America, from the age of 18, a girl is allowed almost every liberty she takes the rest of France. The women are not frivolous, they maintain as commonly supposed, they have a knowledge of their husband's business, and a voice in the management of his affairs.

Mary Ellen Lease will now be known as "Peeping Mary," having obtained this sobriquet through her assertion that she is a Mason. A reporter interviewed Mrs. Lease on the subject, and she explained how she became a Mason as follows: She says when she was sixteen years old a friend of hers, who was a prominent Mason, put in her way to witness a Masonic initiation, and she saw the three degrees administered to a candidate. She was concealed behind a door that had a window in it, and through that window she saw the whole procedure. There are but a few instances on record known to Masons where the three degrees are administered on one night for reasons that are obvious. "That prominent Mason" is equally improbable. The whole explanation is fishy. "Peeping Mary" will have to concoct another story explaining "How I became a Mason."

A lanky individual in a long and faded brown overcoat dropped into a restaurant on Dearborn street yesterday morning, took his seat at one of the tables, placed his hat on the floor by the side of his chair, and beckoned to one of the waiters, says the Chicago Tribune.

"Have you got any stewed punkin?" he asked.

"I think not," replied the waiter.

"Got any fried onions?"

"No."

"Biled turnips?"

"No."

"What have you got that a man can eat, anyhow?"

"Here's our bill of fare."

"I can't read it without my specs, and I didn't bring 'em. Is poken you was hungry yourself, what'd you want?"

"Well, here's a porterhouse steak, roast turkey with cranberry sauce, veal cutlets breaded, saddle of venison, minced clams on toast, pork and beans."

"Pork an' beans? That will do. Bring me some pork an' beans and a cup of sassafras tea, purify strong."

"We haven't got any sassafras tea."

"Hain't got no sassafras tea? What kind of an eatin' house are you runnin'! Don't you know every body, ort to, drink sassafras tea when the spring's comin' on? Kind o' thins the blood, like. How much do you charge for pork an' beans?"

"Twenty-five cents."

The stranger stooped and picked up his hat, put it on his head, rose deliberately, and said to the waiter in a tone of withering rebuke:

"Young man, when I want to get robbed on pork an' beans I'll go to a first-class tavern and have it done in style. Any charge for the time I've been settin' down here? No! Well, good day."

Each County Executive Committee shall decide for its county whether the delegates to the State Convention shall be selected by primary election, beat meetings, county conventions or mass meetings. All primary election and beat meetings which elect delegates to county conventions shall be held on Saturday, the 12th day of May, and all primary elections which are held to elect delegates to the State Convention and all county conventions or mass meetings that they held for the same purpose shall be held on Wednesday, May 16th.

No delegates to the Congressional Conventions shall be elected at the same time that delegates are elected to the State Convention. Delegates to the Congressional Convention shall be elected in such manner as the respective County Executive Committee shall determine, on Saturday, the 26th day of August, 1894, and the Congressional Conventions of the several districts in the State shall be held at such places as the respective Congressional Executive Committees may determine, on Tuesday Sept. 4th, 1894.

All qualified voters shall be entitled, and are requested, to participate in the primaries beat meetings, conventions and mass meetings of the party, who come under any one of the following classifications, to-wit:

First—All those who voted in the last National election for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Second—Those Democrats who would have voted for Cleveland and Stevenson in the last National election, but were prevented from so voting because they were not able to go to the polls.

Third—All those who will be entitled to vote in the next election who are democrats, who were not qualified voters in the last election, and who will support the ticket nominated by the next Democratic State Convention.

NEWS AND EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Editor Richards, of the Lafayette Sun, has been appointed postmaster in Lafayette, Chambers county.

It is reported that Gen. Chas. Shelly will be a candidate for congress in this state from the ninth district.

The Bland bill for coining the silver seigniorage in the treasury passed the house last Thursday by a vote of 168 yeas to 129 nays.

Mr. Gladstone has tendered his resignation as prime minister and Lord Rosebery will succeed him. The queen offered Gladstone a title but he declined it.

In attempting to arrest a negro desperado near Brewton, Escambia county, named Bob Toomer, the latter made an attack upon Sheriff McMillan, who fatally shot him.

The trial of prize fighter, Corbett, in Jacksonville, Fla., charged with violating the law by fighting with Mitchell, ended in his acquittal, and the case against Mitchell was dismissed.

Saturday in the house was taken up with private pension legislation and there were some lively speeches with a war flavor. The senate doesn't yet know where it is making slow progress with it.

ABOUT THE HOME AND FARM

Sheep allowed to remain out in the cold storms remain unthrifty and it is claimed a rotten fleece is the result.

Some one has said that hens are not as strong as a fancy trotting horse but they will beat the horse in raising a mortgage.

All farmers who have not a good deep pond should make one this winter, if the weather continues dry and the ground unfrozen.

It is better to save a pound of flesh than to produce it. Or in other words it is a losing game to neglect stock and let them lose flesh.

Don't be afraid to give the hens some of the 40 cent wheat. They will turn it into eggs and be the means of getting a good price for the wheat.

Every sheep owner should know how to grade wool, says a writer. A good buyer often purchases at a low price simply because the owner does not know that it will grade.

Unless farm machinery is taken care of it will be found that a large portion of what is made will be required to keep good machinery. Farm implements, like all other machinery, will rust out quicker than it will wear out.

Be careful about feeding the idle horse in winter. Do not give the animal much grain. Feed considerable roots, if you have them. Too much dry concentrated food will likely make your horse sick before winter is over.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became ill, she clung to Castoria.
When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

The glad news comes from Mexico that Hon. William I. Wilson, the distinguished congressman, has passed the danger point and is getting well.

OATES IN CALHOUN

He Speaks at Jacksonville Monday to a Good Audience.

Anniston, Oxford and Piedmont are all visited by his Eloquence—Press Opinions of the Speech.

"The One Armed Hero of the Wire Grass Region," made his appearance in Jacksonville on Sunday afternoon last, coming from Anniston. He was met at the station by a deputation of his friends and escorted to the Iron Queen, where he was visited during the evening by a number of citizens—some Oates men, some Johnson men, all admirers of the congressman and his record.

Monday morning at 11 o'clock he was introduced to the people assembled in the court house, to hear him speak, by Col. John H. Caldwell, in an enthusiastic democratic manner. Col. Oates then made his bow and addressed an attentive audience for two hours and a half, on the political questions and issues of the day. He canvassed the whole situation and omitted not a single thing, stating his views on each, and the stand he had taken, and the reason why. Though not a great orator nor what might be called a magnetic man, he convinced every listener of his democracy and ability, and not one of them went away but what had a clearer conception of the principles of democracy and a greater admiration for the present democratic executives. He took up Kolb and his party and laid bare their iniquities and ambitions. He said he thought the most appropriate name for the organization was the "Mule Party" as it had no pride of ancestry nor hope of posterity. He had known Kolb for years and gave a detailed account of his doings in politics—which is familiar to most of our readers—but said that many good men had been led out of the democratic party, unwittingly, by false promises and allegations. He pled with such men to return to democracy, the hope of the country was intact. Some of them, he said, were in pretty much the same fix as John Brown. John owned a fine bull and was ambitious of showing him off to advantage. So he decided to rope the bull and drive him through town. To secure the bull, John tied the rope around the bull's horns and then around his own waist. The bull was greatly admired. When he reached the public square, a brass band began playing, and the bull, not being used to that kind of music, broke into a run. John went with him, tending the ground in high places. A friend of John's, seeing the curious spectacle, yelled: "John Brown where are you going?" "I don't know," gasped John, "Ask the bull!"

He took up the national administration, and told of the stupendous task confronting the administration on the fourth of March, and said that 30 years of republican misrule could not be corrected in one year. In his opinion, Washington, Jackson, nor any of the great notables could have more ably filled the presidential chair than Grover Cleveland. The silver and tariff questions were taken up and discussed at some length, and from a ripe experience was able to fully define the situation. He said that when Wilson again saw his tariff bill, he would recognize it and that it would not be wrongfully changed.

An incident related of the international naval rendezvous at Hampton Roads brought tears to the eyes of all the old soldiers of all the nations of earth honoring a Confederate—and that man was Hillary A. Herbert of Alabama. He thanked God and Grover Cleveland for it. The South had been honored by this administration with appointments as never before;

yet he not concurred with the president in all his nominations.

He exhaustively reviewed the gubernatorial situation, and spoke kindly words of his opponents for the democratic nomination. They were honest able men, though he differed from them in some respects.

The speech was an able one, just the kind the democrats expected to hear from a man like Wm. C. Oates, and the audience dispersed at two o'clock, Col. Oates going to Piedmont, well pleased, and the large percentage of the crowd wearing oats in their buttonholes were enthusiastic and delighted. A number of ladies were present occupying reserved seats. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to Southern womanhood, saying as yet the Woman's Rights' doctrines had not penetrated the South, and viewing the character of our woman, declared it never would.

The Montgomery Advertiser contains the following communication from a correspondent at this place, in regard to the speech:

CALHOUN IN DOUBT.

JACKSONVILLE, March 13.—Calhoun County has been confidently claimed by the friends of Captain Johnston until the past few days. I heard a Johnston man remark yesterday that "Johnston is pretty sure to carry this county in the convention," when an Oates man spoke up and said, "I don't know so much about that. Oates is about as strong in the county now as Johnston, and after that great speech begins to have its effect, it will be almost all on the Oates side."

I think that Oates has a good fighting chance in Calhoun. It is true that Captain Johnston has a long line of kins people here, but that doesn't matter; all of his kins people here are not for him, not any personal objection but because they regard Oates as the man for the hour, and that he can beat Kolb better and with more ease than anybody else.

A gentleman said to me to-day: "I was for Johnston until a day or two ago, when I became convinced that he was not as strong as Oates before the people, and I am now for Oates. He is the man to make the fight, and the man of all others that the opposition do not want."

Colonel Oates made his third speech in this county to-day, and the effect of his speeches have been magical. There are scores upon scores of people who are for Oates who were for Johnston a few days ago, and so it is in every county where Colonel Oates has spoken. And they have changed in their views towards Cleveland and the National administration. Where there has been a disposition to oppose Cleveland and have the State convention at least saying nothing, there is now a very decided opinion that the administration ought to be endorsed and that it would be party suicide not to do so.

The sentiment is rapidly concentrating in this section of the State upon the fact that Oates is the man to make the fight.

If any one doubts these statements, let them take the trouble to investigate for themselves, and they will find that the change is even greater than I have told them.

Colonel Oates speaks for the Democracy, urges upon the people the great importance of unity and organization, and his work for the party cannot now be really estimated but it will be fully realized when the vote is cast in August. Whoever is the nominee will find much of the work already done in those counties where Col. Oates speaks in his canvass.

A gentleman told me to-day that he heard several Kolb men talking as they went down the steps of the Court House at Jacksonville after the speech of Col. Oates there yesterday. One of them said he was much pleased with the speech. Another said that he had learned many things that he never knew before, and was surprised to learn that the Oates demands were regarded, many of them, to be worse than any platform ever promulgated by the Republicans. The third said he had enough of Kolb and his assumed Democracy, and they all agreed that they would return to the Democracy.

And the Hot Blast has the following to say of it:

A correspondent writing from Jacksonville to the Montgomery Advertiser, in reference to the speech of Col. Oates at that place, says that Calhoun county has been accredited to Capt. Johnston on account of his numerous kin, but that the county is now doubtful. There is no questioning the fact but that each of the gentlemen have many ardent supporters in the county. Only the final wind up can demonstrate which has the majority.—Hot Blast.

HYMENIAL

ANOTHER HAPPY MARRIAGE SOL-EMNIZED IN JACKSONVILLE.

It affords us genuine pleasure to chronicle the marriage of Mr. Jas. F. Crow to Miss Iola Whisenant, which happy event occurred at the stately home of the bride's parents in this city, on last Sunday afternoon. It was a surprise to their nearest friends, who knew of the warmest friendship existing between the two, but never dreaming that Cupid's darts would enter in and play havoc with the friendship, and the first intimation they had of the wedding was the summoning of Rev. Robt. Liston to perform the ceremony. At 1:30 o'clock, the immediate family and a few near relatives had assembled in the parlors, the minister had appeared, when Mr. Crow and his best man, Mr. Walter Dean, came, and the ceremony that bound the two loving true hearts together was quietly performed.

The marriage is a happy one in every way. Miss Whisenant is a beautiful and accomplished woman, kind and gentle, bred in an atmosphere productive of all the graces of sweet womanhood. She is of one of the oldest and most honored families of Alabama.

Mr. Crow is the senior member of the well-known firm of Crow Bros., and has carved out for himself fame and fortune in the business of this city. Handsome, genial, possessed of many friends, he will prove a model husband.

The happy pair left on the 2:45 train for Atlanta where they spent several days visiting relatives, returning to Jacksonville on Wednesday and giving their many friends a chance to shower congratulations upon them.

Surely marriages are made in heaven.

THAT BANQUET.

The Methodist did themselves proud at the Iron Queen on Tuesday night. Never before was such a bounteous repast set before mortals for the small sum of one quarter—30 cents including young man and his sweetheart. Meats and salads and jellies and pies and pickles and cakes, etc., were there in abundance, and served to suit an epicure's taste. The banquet was a success but the following program was enjoyed more:

Instrumental Solo—Miss Fannie Hammond.

Recitation—Miss Eva Privett.

Duet—Misses Julia Weems and Eva Privett.

Recitation—"The Grand New Church Organ"—Miss Coker in costume.

Vocal Solo—Miss Burke.

Recitation—Miss Katie Hammond.

Recitation—Miss Libbie Porter.

OUR MAN GETS THERE.

J. A. Gaboury, of this city, and Stephen Noble, of Anniston, have secured the contract for the sewerage of the city of Macon, Ga. It is a large contract, and their bid was for $100,000, the bids of other contractors ranging from $113,000 to $173,000. All the work will be done by Calhoun county men. O. D. Martin, of this city has contracted to do all the draying and hauling. Gordon Frank will also be connected with the work.

MEETS TO-DAY AT 12.

A Reform party county convention will be held in the courthouse here to-day for purpose of nominating candidates for the next General Assembly. It is reported that the genial Reuben and the loquacious Skaggs will be present and make speeches.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:

Mrs. G. and I left St. Petersburg Monday, and after stopping over a day in Tampa, came direct to this place, where Mrs. Kirk and her daughters, our relatives, are residing for the winter. We found invitations awaiting us to visit the homes of the orange growers of the county, and several pleasure excursions planned for our amusement by gentlemen of the town; and our stay here promises to be quite as pleasant socially as at St. Petersburg. I met Mr. Joe Helveston (a nephew of Mrs. Judge Crook of our town) this evening and found that he had arranged for a trip with me this week to Panassoffkee lake, where trout are taken in great abundance. Editor Tillman, of the Sumterville Times has also arranged for a similar trip under guidance of a native huntsman and fisherman. Tomorrow a party of us, including the ladies, will go to a large creek, which empties into the lake, to beam fishing, and so I will have as much of this kind of sport as I will care for. To the gentlemen mentioned as well as to county superintendent Hare, Judge Steele, County Clerk Hull, deputy clerk Barco and other county officials and citizens I am already indebted for many of the courtesies so much appreciated by a stranger in any community. I find several ex-Alabamians here, among them Mr. Hare, Judge Steele and several brothers of Judge Cassidy, of Anniston. Hon. W. J. Borden, formerly of our county, represents this county in the State Senate and is the President of the State Alliance. He lives about fifteen miles from here. I have not yet met him, but hope to do so before I leave. Most people one meets in Florida are natives of some other State. I have met very few native Floridians since I have been in the State. I have enquired everywhere I have gone for members of Finnegan's old brigade, but so far have failed to meet a member of it, though people say there are some of the old veterans left. They were good fighters, though very small built, sallow looking fellows, and I should feel like I had met an old acquaintance should I run against one of Finnegan's gophers. God bless the old Confederate soldiers! I love them more as time thins their heroic ranks and as their deeds of sacrifice for country grow lustrous by contrast with the sordid spirit of the hour and the selfish struggle for power and power by men who seem to care less for country than they do for those special interests behind which is the glitter of gold.

Sumter county is one of the chief orange and vegetable growing counties of the State and has also large lumber interests. Sumterville is the county site and a most healthful spot. The county has thousands upon thousands of acres of fine hammock lands and many very large groves. Panassoffkee lake, a few miles from here is the largest orange grove in the world. It covers near or quite one thousand acres. Editor Tillman kindly drove me out to a large cabbage farm, two miles from town, some evenings ago. It comprised one hundred acres. Capt. Hamilton, one of the proprietors, met us at the farm and kindly showed us over parts of it. The cabbage were in full head and were being crated and shipped to New York, Chicago, Washington, and other of the large cities of the country where they find ready sale. The worm does not trouble the cabbage here, as the crop is practically made before it makes its appearance. On this farm are raised also beets, onions, lettuce and other vegetables in great abundance. Capt. Hamilton kindly filled our buggy with the products of the farm on our return to town. It is situated in a very rich hammock, and after the vegetable crop is made the owners are compelled to plant peas or corn to keep down the native growth, or else pay from six to eight dollars an acre to again clear the land with each recurring season. In all the cabbage fields young orange trees are growing and in the course of five years these fine lands will be given up to the orange. These hammock groves are the ones that pay in Florida if any do, for the trees in them require no fertilization, which is such a large element of cost in the sandy lands. Next to this vegetable farm was a hundred acre orange grove, very beautiful in its wealth of white flowers and golden fruit and very delicious in odor. It is owned by a company of men who bought thousands of acres of this rich hammock land, and at a few dollars an acre, some years ago. Now the land is worth from $25 to $75 an acre uncleared. That set in bearing orange trees is of course much more valuable. As I have said these kinds of groves pay. There has been much money and labor spent on many others which do not pay and do not unfrequently see an abandoned grove. True has proven that it won't pay for the work and fertilizer necessary to keep it up, the land being poor and unsuitable. It is not all kinds of land that suit the orange and few understand how to grow the fruit successfully. Some lose money by careless packing and handling after the crop is made. While some I have heard of have not realized more than ten cents a box clear of cost of handling, others have realized as much as a dollar a box. The railroads take the bulk of the crop for freight, it is said and the complaint of this condition can be heard on all hands. When the State is cut up by more roads this may be remedied.

The weather has been disagreeably warm since I have been here every day, the flowers are out and the mocking birds singing as in the spring with us. Strawberry have been in fruit here since Christmas, and we now daily enjoy them at ten to twelve cents a quart. They are very fine. The strawberry raisers claim that they too have not realized a profit on their crop this year. What interest has! Low prices prevail everywhere and in everything and general paralysis has followed in every branch of industry. Near one of the places to which I have been invited is what is called the "Wonders" and the scene of Dade's massacre by the Indians. Among the wonders are many great sinks, below which flow subterranean rivers of unfathomable depth, full of fish, which have no visible outlet; lakes that suddenly dry up, leaving millions of fish stranded and as suddenly fill again; great quagmires, in which it is death to man or beast to be caught, and jungles, in which the panther and the bear are yet found. If I visit these I may write of them in a future letter. I hope to be home by the 1st of April. Time has passed quickly and pleasantly in this land of Summer and fruits and flowers; but I am tired of loading and want to get back to work. Then, let me confess it, I catch distant sounds of the political fight in Alabama, and with the instinct of the old soldier I long to be in the thickest of it, not to battle so much for the interests of any man or men as for the triumph of the principles of the Democratic party, in which I firmly and conscientiously believe resides the future welfare of our beloved state. I do not see how any patriotic man can be out of politics at any time, much less at a juncture like this, when the party is being assaulted by not only its ancient enemy but by some of its former friends who have been taught by self-seeking men to distrust and hate it. Now is the time for every true Democrat to be at his post and he should stay there until after the August election. And every Democrat will be there and is always there. Cowards and skulkers and trimmers we shall always have with us, as we had during the physical struggle between sections of the Union in the sixties, and these should be excused and sent to the hospital now, lest they demoralize and stamper the fighting force at the critical juncture. None but brave, steady, true men should be put on guard and the ranks should close up all along the line until elbows touch. This done, the old party will be invincible and in August will score such a victory in our State and county as will forever settle the question as to what party shall rule Alabama. L. W. G.

IN THE TOWN

Items too Small For a Separate head.

What the People of Jacksonville and Vicinity are doing Condensed into Crisp Paragraphs.

Dr. Montgomery is seriously ill. Rufus Weaver, of Cedar town, was here Tuesday.

Miss Jennie Wryly is visiting relatives in Ashville.

Two "funnygraphs" were in town during the week.

Quite a number of our White Plains people were over Monday to hear Col. Oates speak.

Services at the Methodist church Sunday morning and evening. Rev. James H. Leslie, pastor.

Mrs. Robert Watson, of White Plains, has been quite sick. We are glad to report her improving.

Ed. Rowan is voted by the ladies, farmers, and business men to be the most popular clerk in town.

Prof. Jacob Forney spends several Sundays in each month at Jennifer, it is said. Last Sunday was one of them.

James G. Miller—"Handsome Jim" as the girls are wont to say—of Anniston, spent Thursday in Jacksonville.

Tax Collector Roberts is hustling the boys for street tax. Ain't we glad that our eighteenth birthday came in '94.

The following notice was handed in: "The Rooster party will meet in T. R. Ward's old store house on the night of March 21st."

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McGaughey entertained a number of their young friends on Wednesday night in a most delightful manner.

C. E. Bondurant has been absent in Selma this week. Ed. Driskill is handling the Western Union key in the meantime.

New arrivals at the Hotel de Clark—three gentlemen of Beat 8 charged with breaking the law. Patronage solicitor, J. Rowland.

We would not marvel if the inhabitants of Jacksonville were treated to another matrimonial surprise before the week is out.

Lon Montgomery, one of the most popular young men attending the S. N. S., spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Eastaboga.

We were mistaken in saying last week that Mrs. Gaboury was very ill. We are glad to chronicle that she has recovered from a recent illness.

Rev. W. L. Millechamps, rector of St. Luke's, delivered an eloquent discourse to the Normal students on Monday night. It was postponed from Sunday night.

Mr. D. S. Black, of White Plains, was taken suddenly ill Thursday night, and has been quite sick. We are glad to learn from Dr. Williams that he is improving.

Ullman Bros. of Anniston, have three advertisements in this issue of the REPUBLICAN; many Jacksonville merchants have none at all. The Ullmans are doing the grand thing by the trade this season.

Mrs. Brandon, of Gadsden, was over to the funeral of sister Allday last week. She was a co-worker with her in the missionary cause. She returned to her home in Gadsden, Thursday the 8th.

A curious rock was found by John Swan in the spring branch Thursday. It had every appearance of being a petrified block of pine wood, perfectly square, and one could even see evidences of where resin had oozed out of it. Send it to the Smithsonian.

The editor of the REPUBLICAN is absent in Florida, and the present management does not feel authorized to express an editorial opinion. We hope to give the news as it occurs to us—nothing more, no matter what our personal opinions may be.

Mr. A. M. Morgan killed a wild turkey last week which weighed 22 pounds. This writer had his share of the feast, and enjoyed it very much. Bro. Morgan went with us to Choctolocco, and helped us much in our work for the Christian Enterprise, for which we return thanks.—Christian Enterprise.

It may not be thoroughly known that services are held in the Presbyterian church in Jacksonville twice a month, on second and fourth Sundays. On the fourth Sunday of this month the 25th communion service will be held at this church. Everybody cordially invited.

The following representative gentlemen of Piedmont heard Col. Oates speak here on Monday: W. J. Brock; J. W. Andrews, G. W. Alexander, Capt. Hood, J. C. Wickes, E. D. McClelen, Major Harris, J. J. Wilson, A. F. Tomlin, T. R. Sparks, A. D. Alexander, J. W. Estes, Sharp Stewart, M. Harden, John Cooke, C. A. Sharpe, A. McCollister.

The Age-Herald of Wednesday contains the following:

Matrimonially Jacksonville is surprising herself and outdoing the neighboring villages. The whole town was startled yesterday by the announcement that at 2 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. James F. Crow and Miss Iola Whisenant were married by Rev. Robert Liston, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The happy couple left on the northbound train to spend some days in Atlanta and elsewhere. Many good wishes are extended for the happiness of the newly married pair.

L. W. Grant and wife, who have been spending the winter at St. Petersburg, were in the city yesterday. They left this morning for Sumterville, where he will indulge in sport with his gun. Mr. Grant is a staunch Democrat and editor of the Jacksonville (Ala.) Republican, a Democratic organ in spite of its name. He has been in the newspaper business all his life and has been successful in it. He and his wife are well pleased with this locality, and will return here next season.—Tampa Daily Times.

The J. F. F. Club met with Miss Addie Hammond on last Monday evening and the occasion was one of unalloyed pleasure. The club has struck from its constitution the offending line: "no men admitted," and now we are in hearty accord with the organization and will attempt no more bad puns. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bondurant, Misses Lillie Weems, Bessie Haley, Jessie Adams, Marie Burke, Addie, Fannie and Katie Hammond, Lizzie Mattison, Fannie Coker. Messrs. Arnold, Lane, Alexander, Wright, Forney, Henderson, Frank, Paul Haley. Mrs. Bondurant will entertain the club at an early date.

Hon. L. W. Grant, editor of the Jacksonville (Ala.) Republican, arrived in Sumterville Tuesday from St. Petersburg, where he has spent several weeks, here with his sister, Mrs. W. R. Kirk. Mr. Grant is a son of "Father" Grant, who was known for many years as the oldest editor in Alabama. The Republican has always been a leading paper and thoroughly Democratic, notwithstanding its name, as it was named before the present Republican party came into existence, and has been in the Grant family fifty odd years. Mr. Grant is as prominent as his father was, and was a candidate for congress from his district two years ago. He is pleased with Florida.—Sumterville (Fla.) Times.

NEWS AND EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Editor Richards, of the LaFayette Sun, has been appointed postmaster in LaFayette, Chambers county.

It is reported that Gen. Chas. Shelly will be a candidate for congress in this state from the ninth district.

The Bland bill for coining the silver seigniorage in the treasury passed the house last Thursday by a vote of 168 yeas to 129 nays.

Mr. Gladstone has tendered his resignation as prime minister and Lord Rosebery will succeed him. The queen offered Gladstone a title but he declined it.

In attempting to arrest a negro desperado near Brewton, Escambia county, named Bob Toomer, the latter made an attack upon Sheriff McMillan, who fatally shot him.

The trial of prize fighter, Corbett, in Jacksonville, Fla., charged with violating the law by fighting with Mitchell, ended in his acquittal, and the case against Mitchell was dismissed.

Saturday in the house was taken up with private pension legislation and there were some lively speeches with a war flavor. The senate doesn't yet know where it is making slow progress with it.

ABOUT THE HOME AND FARM

Sheep allowed to remain out in the cold storms remain unthrifty and it is claimed a rotten fleece is the result.

Some one has said that hens are not as strong as a fancy trotting horse but they will beat the horse in raising a mortgage.

All farmers who have not a good deep pond should make one this winter, if the weather continues dry and the ground unfrozen.

It is better to save a pound of flesh than to produce it. Or in other words it is a losing game to neglect stock and let them lose flesh.

Don't be afraid to give the hens some of the 40 cent wheat. They will turn it into eggs and be the means of getting a good price for the wheat.

Every sheep owner should know how to grade wool, says a writer. A good buyer often purchases at a low price simply because the owner does not know that it will grade.

Unless farm machinery is taken care of it will be found that a large portion of what is made will be required to keep good machinery. Farm implements, like all other machinery, will rust out quicker than it will wear out.

Be careful about feeding the idle horse in winter. Do not give the animal much grain. Feed considerable roots, if you have them. Too much dry concentrated food will likely make your horse sick before winter is over.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became a Girl, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The glad news comes from Mexico that Hon. William I. Wilson, the distinguished congressman, has passed the danger point and is getting well.

MY MOTHER'S BIBLE

INSCRIBED TO W. V. M. AND DEDICATED TO MRS. M. D. CALDWELL.

Christian Enterprise.
That Bible of my mother's,
She always read at prayers,
I prize above all others.
Tho' old and worn with years.

Oh, for my gentle sister,
There's one in silken shrine,
Ink'd with golden lustre,
And bound in purple hue.
In rosewood, too, another Beauteous one, encased—
Just suits my darling brother,
With all our history traced.

And for my noble father,
There's one with letters bold,
To him a perfect treasure,
Now he is growing old.
But give to me that bible,
My mother read at prayers—
That lay upon the table—
So old and worn with years.

We often read together,
At times the blinding tears,
In her dear eyes would gather
And fall in copious showers.
Oh, now I well remember
How sad and pale her face,
When I, with childish wonder,
Asked why she marked a place.

When I am gone forever,
She said, "My children dear,
I'd have you cherish ever
These truths I mark with care.
Oh then, oh then, remember;
To turn for counsel here,
These pages read and ponder;
And all the precepts hear.

Remember, oh, remember,
When all these signs you see;
That tho' I dwell on yonder,
Yet here, I point to thee.
Some words of warning boldly,
Are marked to rouse gone fears;
And some for promise holy,
To stay desponding tears.

Sometimes you'll see an arrow,
Some startling truth to pierce;
And wake a trembling horror,
Of God's eternal curse.

And oft you'll find an anchor
To stay your hopes upon;
And lead safe into harbor,
Your soul from every storm.

But chief of all is given,
The path of duty plain:
The path that leads to heaven,
Where you may ever reign."

ALONE.
Texas, 1870.

HUNDLEY AMENDMENT.

Christian Enterprise.

In the Jacksonville Republican a short time since, was published an article from our Educational Campaign Board for Calhoun county setting forth the advantages to be derived by incorporating the proposed Hundley Amendment in our constitution. Supposing the article was read by most of our citizens, it is our purpose at present to make simply a few supplementary observations.

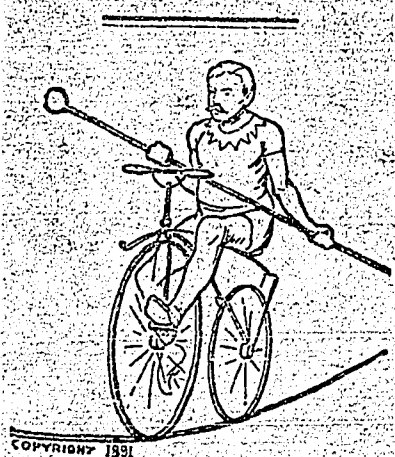

First, we would reiterate the fact that the danger of the defeat of the Amendment lies not in the number of votes that will be cast against it, but in the fact that many voters, will fail to give any attention to the proposed amendment, — voting neither for nor against it directly, and yet all such failures to vote either way will be counted against the amendment, for in order that it may be adopted, it must be agreed to by a majority of all the citizens that vote for representatives in the in the next election.

Of course everyone knows that the substance of the Hundley Amendment is no new idea, for most of the states already have laws that enable the citizens of any of their school districts to levy a tax on themselves for school purposes. Alabama should not be behind in this matter. It is often said, and truly, that our public schools with our present limited funds for their maintenance are in many respects a drawback rather than a stimulant to educational advancement. Yet everyone knows that it would never do to abolish our public school system. Then there is but one solution of the problem; viz., to make it more efficient, and the Hundley Amendment is a step in this direction.

Some have objected to the proposed amendment on the ground that if adopted, the trustees of any school district would at once be empowered to levy the tax in question. This, however, would not be the case since the adoption of the amendment would simply enable the General Assembly of Alabama to confer upon the trustees the power to levy the special tax with such restrictions as it may deem best.

It has long been recognized that ignorance and immorality move hand in hand, and we may add that the reverse of this, or that education and morality go together, is usually true, especially where good moral character is regarded as a necessary requisite of the teacher. It would seem therefore from a religious, as well as a secular standpoint that the Hundley Amendment is in the right line.

But—
The offer that's made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Risky for them. For you, if you have Catarrh, it's a certainty. You're certain to be cured of it, or to be paid $500. That's what they offer, and in good faith—they cure you, or pay you, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing.

But—
Is it so much of a risk? They have a medicine that cures Catarrh, not for a time, but for all time. They've watched it for years, curing the most hopeless cases. They know that in your case there's every chance of success, almost no chance of failure.

Wouldn't any one take such a risk with such a medicine? The only question is—are you willing to make the test, if the makers are willing to take the risk?

If so, the rest is easy. You pay your druggist fifty cents and the trial begins.

Our District Conference is held at Piedmont, April 20th and 22nd. Bishop W. W. Duncan will preside. We have a promise from the bishop to pay us a visit and preach for us after conference, if he can. We hope it will be possible. It will be a privilege to have him with us. He is an able preacher and a wise administrator of the affairs of the church.—Christian Enterprise.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE!

The Cause and Its Lesson.

Why did he commit suicide? Oh! for the same reason that thousands of others are on the verge of the same sin, or in immediate danger of insanity, paralysis, idiosyncrasy, or some other equally unfortunate result of a nervous disorder. He knew he was afflicted with a nervous disorder, but careless, apparently indifferent to the cause, or he may have lessened his chances for recovery by treating with physicians who had little or no knowledge of such affections, or by indulging himself with too little so-called remedies. His case was a sad one, but no worse than that of any other nervous sufferer, who has nervous or sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, irritability, melancholy, falling memory, hot flashes, fainting, sleeplessness, nervous dyspepsia, sexual debility, epilepsy, etc. The same or similar consequences are likely to result to any one who has any of these advance symptoms of an awful end. Do not hesitate in getting rid of them by intelligent treatment. Dr. Franklin Miles, the celebrated specialist, has studied nervous diseases over 20 years, and has discovered the only reliable remedy for them. Thousands of voluntary testimonials prove the virtues of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

Alonso Barker, of Clinton, N. Y., writes: "I was so afflicted with extreme nervousness that I was on the verge of suicide. My hands trembled so that I could scarcely feed myself. I used twelve bottles of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and was cured. It is with pleasure I recommend this wonderful remedy for nervous troubles." Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a blood-purifier, and it cures all the chronic diseases of the blood, such as skin eruptions, itching, and all the troubles that result from impure blood. It is a powerful purifier, and it cures all the chronic diseases of the blood, such as skin eruptions, itching, and all the troubles that result from impure blood. It is a powerful purifier, and it cures all the chronic diseases of the blood, such as skin eruptions, itching, and all the troubles that result from impure blood.

Each County Executive Committee shall decide for its county whether the delegates to the State Convention shall be selected by primary election, beat meetings, county conventions or mass meetings. All primary election and beat meetings which elect delegates to county conventions shall be held on Saturday, the 12th day of May, and all primary elections which are held to elect delegates to the State Convention and all county conventions or mass meetings that they held for the same purpose shall be held on Wednesday, May 16th.

No delegates to the Congressional Conventions shall be elected at the same time that delegates are elected to the State Convention. Delegates to the Congressional Convention shall be elected in such manner as the respective County Executive Committee shall determine, on Saturday, the 26th day of August, 1894, and the Congressional Conventions of the several districts in the State shall be held at such places as the respective Congressional Executive Committees may determine, on Tuesday Sept. 4th, 1894.

All qualified voters shall be entitled, and are requested, to participate in the primaries, beat meetings, conventions and mass meetings of the party, who come under any one of the following classifications, to-wit: First—All those who voted in the last National election for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Second—Those Democrats who would have voted for Cleveland and Stevenson in the last National election, but were prevented from so voting because they were not able to go to the polls.

Third—All those who will be entitled to vote in the next election who are democrats, who were not qualified voters in the last election, and who will support the ticket nominated by the next Democratic State Convention.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Cud, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quick remedies which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

The president has appointed Henry A. Dent, of Alabama, paymaster in the navy.

Grand Master Workman Sovereign of the Knights of Labor, is lecturing in Alabama.

Chief Justice Stone, of this state, over 80 years old, died in Montgomery last Sunday.

Twenty-three negroes, all charged with capital crimes, are now confined in the Montgomery jail.

The seigniorage bill will be taken up in the senate Thursday and it is thought that it will certainly pass.

Congressman Blanchard has been appointed senator from Louisiana to succeed Judge White, promoted to the supreme bench.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Miss Winnie Davis and Mrs. U. S. Grant are all expected at the great confederate reunion in Birmingham on the 24th of April.

Miss Mary Bagwell, living near Dale, Blount county, was burned to death the 8th, by her dress catching fire from cornstalks her brothers were burning in the field.

Edward Grant, a country merchant, was assassinated in his store in the lower part of Montgomery county last Monday night, and two negroes are under arrest, charged with the crime.

The Wilson tariff bill, badly cut up, has been completed and submitted to the full senate committee. The notable changes are: sugar, duty one cent per pound, coal and iron ore, 40 cents per ton. Wood and lumber remain on the free list.

C. T. Hodge, of Troy, was shot in the neck by J. C. Mann, a Baltimore drummer, in that city Saturday night. They were both of the pistol carrying variety of useful citizens, got into a quarrel and commenced blazing away. Hodge will recover.

Col. Wm. C. Oates, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, was received with princely honors in Anniston last Saturday by the people of that city, and addressed an immense audience in the opera house in the evening. His speech created great enthusiasm.

The sensational Breckinridge-Pollard case has been occupying the attention of the press and people during the week. The evidence now in, proves to a certainty that Col. Breckinridge did promise to marry Miss Pollard—the point to be gained by the prosecution.

A Beautiful girl committed suicide in Atlanta the other day. "A prominent Atlanta druggist," is responsible for it so the newspapers say.

We clip the following from the Montgomery Advertiser:

"Hon. E. L. Russell, of Mobile, elector for the State at large to the National Convention, is in the city on legal business for the Mobile and Ohio Railroad of which he is the general solicitor. The Post quotes him as follows on the Alabama political situation:

"There are three avowed candidates for the gubernatorial nomination—Congressman Oates, Joseph F. Johnston of Birmingham, and ex-Mayor Rich, of Mobile. Without expressing any personal preference and looking at the matter simply in the light of what is best for the Democratic Party. I say emphatically that the emergency calls for the nomination of Johnston. He is a splendid leader and organizer. He is the man who can assuredly defeat Kolb, the candidate of the bolters. Whether Col. Oates or Mr. Rich could do so, is uncertain, and my idea is that we cannot afford to take any chances. Johnston is a popular man, and one of the kind that always win, and just at the this crisis we must have a man of this sort, or the Democratic banner may trail in defeat next November."

MARRIED.

On Feb. 21st we went to White Plains to officiate at the marriage of Prof. George H. Eaddy and Miss Mattie E. Willhott. The young ladies on short notice decorated the church beautifully. Miss Cassie Little presided at the organ. At 8 o'clock the bridal party marched up the aisle to the altar where the two happy young people were united in holy wedlock according to the beautiful ceremony of our church. They left on Thursday morning for a trip to Georgia, accompanied by a number of friends, to Chocoma, where they took the train. Miss Josie Williams, daughter of Dr. J. C. Williams, accompanied them to Georgia. The Christian Enterprise joins their many friends in wishing them a long, prosperous, and happy life here and a home in the beautiful beyond.—Christian Enterprise.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

At Twelve Hundred—A Little Orange Grove—A Little Political Talk.

SOMTEVILLE, FLA.,
March 19, 1894.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:

Oranges are bringing a better price now and are more in demand and the orange growers are correspondingly happy; but unfortunately for those in this section of the State the crop is nearly all marketed. Grapefruit is in great demand and the prices have been good all the season. There is a fast growing demand for this fine table fruit, and its production will be greatly stimulated. Orange growers will bud the grapefruit into their orange stocks and thus get quick returns. The grapefruit tree greatly resembles the orange tree and is a heavy bearer. The fruit is large and it does not take many of them to fill an orange box, yet they command about double the price of oranges. There are as many varieties of oranges as there are varieties of apples and peaches, and growers claim that they can produce sweet or sour, early or late oranges on the same tree, according to fertilization and cultivation. It is very evident that much depends on careful attention to the grove, and it requires work to make an orange crop as it does to make a corn or cotton crop. The popular idea that when a grove gets to bearing the proprietor has nothing else to do but to gather its fruits yearly and enjoy the income, is all wrong. The soil must be worked, the trees must be mulched and fertilized, insects must be killed and many other things done to keep the grove in healthy condition. Neglect a grove two years and it will take longer than that to bring it back to good condition. But, with all this, growing oranges is a pretty business and profitable one when the fruit commands good prices and the railroads and commission men do not take all the profits. The cry here is over production, but the planting of groves goes steadily on. In this county a grove of twelve hundred acres is now being planted. It will be larger than the one mentioned in my last letter, but it can never be more beautiful. In company with Editor Tillman and Mr. Jake Marsh, a native orange grower, fisherman and bear hunter, I went out to the thousand acre Harris grove on Lake Panasoffee last Friday. One can travel six miles through the grove. The house is on the lake front and is beautiful, with all modern conveniences. Here lives Mr. J. T. Lewis, formerly of Montgomery county, Ala., who has charge of the grove and is, I believe, interested in it. The entire grove is in rich hammock land and requires no fertilization. The great oaks festooned with long moss, and the cabbage palms, which are left for the protection of orange and lemon trees, interblended with the green foliage of the orange growth, which is now crowned with a wealth of white flowers, the stately homestead, the great packing house, the barges at the wharf, the fine lake and the native jungle of great trees and creeping vines across the run which connects lake and river, form a tropical scene surpassingly lovely. Our party met a most hearty welcome at the hands of Mr. Lewis and family. After an excellent dinner he placed his boat at our disposal and we began a war on the finny tribe. Messrs Tillman and Marsh contented themselves with landing the great bream which swarm in the growth that lines the lake shore. Taking the first small fish caught I used my reel and threw out into deeper water for a trout and was soon rewarded. A five pound fish struck my hook and broke for deep water. Being checked he broke for the boat to get a slack line and the reel was kept flying to foil his tactics; then he broke for the water weeds, but being foiled here again, he gave up the fight and suffered himself reeled in and brought aboard without further ado. This was repeated again and again, more being lost than landed; but in a short while, together with the bream, we had more fish than we three wanted and trolling was postponed for a future day. By way of parting compliment to the fish Mr. Marsh picked up a cane rod, baited with perch half the size of a man's hand, and dropped his hook a few feet from the boat where he saw a trout swimming around. In a few seconds he had his fish landed. He dropped his hook back in the same place and instantly he was hauling in another of equal size. This ended the sport, and our hunter pulled for shore. Water fowl were plentiful here; but quite distant. To illustrate his splendid marksmanship he picked up my gun and brought down a bird of beautiful crest and plumage that was floating in the air above the placid waters. He is a thorough sportsman and all around good fellow (like all these native Floridians), and if I had the time I should like to go with him on a camp hunt for bear. To give the ladies a chance (for they do not like going on the lakes in boats) I have twice gone out to the streams and sinks near here and both times brought in fine strings of bream and trout and other fish. Under guidance of Mr. Wilkes Cassidy, a party of us walked out to the sinks two miles from here some days ago. These sinks are fed by subterranean streams and are said by the inhabitants to be bottomless. The one we went to was low and literally swarmed with fish. Some times they suddenly dry up and leave immense quantities of fish stranded in the shallows. We were quite successful and staid until late in the evening dreading the warm walk back home. At this juncture Judge Steele drove up with a vehicle ample for all. He said he knew we would be tired after the day's sport and that he had come out to haul us back. This is a specimen of the kindness we have met on every land since we have been in Florida. The day that I was absent at Panasoffee lake, a gentleman drove in fifteen miles to take us to the beautiful place of Mr. Crump at Bay Hill, where hospitality is said to make its home. I much regretted missing him, for I fear I shall not now have the time for a visit which promised so much pleasure.

The weather has been distressingly warm, the past week, reminding me much of mid-summer in Jacksonville. But for the breezes which come across the peninsula from gulf and sea it would be unbearable. The nights and evenings, however, are delightfully cool. The only real drawback to comfort are the mosquitoes, sand flies and fleas. The fleas propagate in the sand and are numberless. People here have to use liberally a flea powder, fatal to the insect, to avoid annoyance from it. In the summer the fleas die out, killed it is supposed by the hot sands; but the mosquito stays all the year round.

Many very pretty groves of oranges can be bought near here, and I should advise any one who may want to go into orange culture in Florida to buy a grove "ready made. One can always buy a house cheaper than he can build, and so it is with the orange grove. Here, as every where, some men have got into debt beyond their means to pay out, and would be glad to sell their groves and get something beyond the amount of debt for which they are mortgaged.

I note from the papers that I get from Alabama that as the canvass for the Democratic nomination proceeds between Johnston, Oates and Rich, some of the adherents of each are giving way to bad temper and are inclined to belittle the men they oppose. This is unwise. It is a moral certainty that the organized Democracy will have to support one of the three, for the State Convention will not take a dark horse. This being the case, the less said against either, the better it will be for Democracy. The opposition will be a unit on Kolb. The Democracy should be a unit on the nominee of the Democratic State Convention; but will it be, if passion be allowed to come into the canvass for the nomination? It is gratifying to note that the three candidates most interested speak well of each other and are thus setting their followers a good example. All the State knows these three gentlemen to be good and true men, and the canvass should be conducted in such spirit as will admit of a ready acquiescence in the nomination of either one of them. So far as the REPUBLICAN is concerned, it wants to preserve such an attitude to each one of them that it can support the nominee without eating any crow or making any explanations. With the success of the party rises superior to any individual claims.

LUTHERAN SERVICES.

There will be Lutheran services at Zion's church, near Aderhold's mills, beginning on Good Friday and continuing through Easter Sunday. The following themes will be discussed: On Good Friday at 11 o'clock a. m. "The Reading of the Veil," on Saturday at 11 o'clock a. m. "Confession and Absolution." On Saturday night at 8 o'clock: "Christ's Descent into Hell," and on Easter Sunday at 10 o'clock a. m. "The Paschal Feast," after which the Holy Communion will be administered. It is earnestly desired that all Lutherans and friends throughout the entire community will attend these services.

KOLBITES.

Greer and Stevens for the House of Representatives.

Dr. Skelton and Tom Harvey Not in It at All—Kolb and Goodwyn Vent Their Spleen.

Last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock the Populist County Convention assembled in the court house here and played to a good audience, the town having turned out through curiosity, to view the proceedings. Eighty-seven delegates were present, all told, when Chairman Williams, called the convention to order. Some men moved to nominate representatives by secret ballot of beats "so as not to trample on no man's feelings."

L. F. Greer and N. J. Stevens were nominated on the first ballot, Skelton, Harvey, Wright, and Guthrie getting a few scattering votes.

George W. Landers was nominated for county superintendent of education by acclamation.

After the yell, Greer Greer! by the maddening crowd, Lemuel took the floor and swept the auditorium with his blood-vessel-bursting eloquence, and about the devilry of democrats, etc.

Newt, in soft seductive tones, told them that he was gladder than the gladdest man ever was glad that this great honor had been thrust upon him, and they would never, no never have cause to regret it. With these few words he would yield the floor to the "Great White Horse of the Mule Party," alluding to King Reuben who arrived about that time at the carnival hall accompanied by his faithful attendant.

And not a voice murmured "a speech O, Landers!"

The convention adjourned then and there, extending an invitation to everybody to come back at 1:30 and listen to that old speech we have all listened to so many times—bombastic phrases. His speech was short, very short. The genial air and confident bearing has forsaken him and he appears nervous and afraid. Probably he sees the ghost of old man McRae confronting him—or is it the shadow of Oates or maybe the mocking face of Johnston. He says he will down the democrats by a few hundred thousand majority!

Goodwyn followed Kolb and spoke for three hours, many of his hearers leaving the room afflicted with that tired feeling. He said this was the "first gun in a campaign, the like of which had never been known in Alabama," but this gun reminds us of the one we used to shoot when we were a little boy.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

In as much as it has pleased Almighty God, in his infinite wisdom, to take from us our friend and classmate, Evins Atkins, and has left his family in sore distress on account of this bereavement.

We, the members of the Sophomore Class of the State Normal School have resolved.

That, By the death of Evins Atkins, the State Normal School has lost a faithful and conscientious pupil, and the Sophomore Class, a true and worthy student.

That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his family in this, their hour of affliction, and beg to be allowed to express to them the sincere sorrow that we feel in the loss of our fellow student.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, and that the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN be requested to publish the same.

Adopted by, THE SOPHOMORE CLASS, State Normal School, Jacksonville, Ala. March 22, 94.

Rev. James Leslie went over to White Plains Thursday to bind a pair of hearts together. The names of the contracting parties could not be learned. Mr. Leslie is a good tier so they say.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

The tariff bill is at last ready for the senate.

Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, is dead at last in the 94th year of his age.

Sheriff Henagan, of Hale county, killed two robbers the 21st and was himself killed.

United States Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, has suffered another paralytic stroke and his life is in danger.

R. T. Foster, on trail at Lafayette, Chambers county, for the murder of Hudson, has been found guilty and sent to the pen for life.

Six miles from Longview, Texas, last Sunday, a cyclone struck a house filled with negroes and killed five and wounded all the others. There were also cyclones through Arkansas and Louisiana and heavy floods, doing an immense amount of damage to stock and crops.

Professor John W. Abercrombie decided not to become a candidate for Superintendent of Education.

Of him The "Anniston" Hot-Blast says: "From a card published elsewhere it will be seen that Professor John W. Abercrombie declines to become a candidate for State Superintendent of Education. The gentleman is a young man, but has already made a wide and admirable reputation as a teacher and instructor. His refusal to enter the contest now will but give his numerous friends a better opportunity to center on him in the future."

Campaign poetry is now the go. The following as "Kolb's Lament," is from The Mobile Register:

Homeless, ragged and tanned,
Under a changeful sky—
Who so poor in the land,
Who so deserted am I!

Not e'en a dog
Do I call by friendship's name;
Painful I jog,
In a vale of grief and shame.

Homeless, ragged and tanned,
Under a baleful sky;
Jeffo-Pop-Republican
Reuben F. Kolb am I!

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Emma W. Allday, who was our District secretary of woman's work in the Anniston District and also president of our Woman's Missionary Society at Weavers Station, Alabama.

Whereas, It has pleased our heavenly Father to take from our society, our very efficient, faithful and beloved president

And Whereas, We recognize that we have sustained a great loss, the Church a most faithful and efficient worker, the District the most fervent, zealous missionary spirit in it, therefore,

Resolved 1st: That while we so sadly miss her pleasant face, her wise counsels, her fervent prayers, and our hearts bleed yet we will endeavor to emulate her example, and wait for the workings of Divine Providence to raise up some one to take her place.

2nd: That as we recognize the vacancy left by her death; we can but sit in mute silence, and wonder at the mysteries of Providence, to His will, believing that He doeth all things well.

3rd: That we extend to the bereaved husband and relatives our deepest sympathies in this sad bereavement, and point them to her last word "follow on" and to the promises of God's word, praying God to heal their bleeding wounds and comfort their sad hearts.

4th: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the Woman's Missionary Advocate, and the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN for publication and also a copy be sent to the bereaved husband.

THE A. P. A. ABOMINATION.

It must be conceded to the credit of the Southern people that they have rarely been carried away by "isms."

In no other section of the country will the religious and social thought of the masses be found so conservative as in the South. This may be due in part to the happy escape of the South from the influx of that class of immigrants who have made some of the new cities of the West hotbeds of socialism and anarchy, but at any rate the intellectual and moral conservatism of the South is justly regarded as one of the safeguards of the nation.

This characteristic of our people is brought into prominence when we take account of a new movement which is now agitating the entire West, and which threatens very serious mischief. I refer to the A. P. A. or American Protective Association, which is to be found fully organized and at work in every Western State from Ohio to our north-western border, and on out beyond the Rocky mountains. In some of these states its membership is numbered by tens of thousands and its influence has already been shown to be powerful. Not only has the A. P. A. obtained no foothold in the South, but it is so seldom even heard of here that many of our people who are well-informed on most questions of current interest, are not even aware that such an organization exists.

But throughout the West the newspapers give great space to reports and discussions of the alleged proceedings and purposes of this secret order. It is one of the most prevalent themes of conversation among all classes of people and in all places.

As this subject fills a very large place in the minds of millions of our fellow citizens, it cannot fail to interest every intelligent and patriotic citizen of the republic.

What, then, is the American Protective Association, and what are its objects?

It is a secret order, and there are two ways of answering the question just propounded. One is to accept without reservation the statement of its principles and aims which the association itself gives out.

The other is to collect such evidence as can be obtained as to its practical workings, and to judge it by its acts rather than by its professions. If we take its published platform as a full and proclamation of its principles and purposes, we shall have to admit that the A. P. A. is purely a patriotic order, and that, whether there is any necessity for it or not, it is inspired by right considerations. Its published platform is as follows:

"We attack no man's religion so long as he does not attempt to make his religion an element of political power.

"We are in favor of preserving constitutional liberty and maintaining the government of the United States.

"We regard all religious political organizations as the enemies of civil and religious liberty.

Every intelligent and patriotic citizen of the United States could endorse every word in this so-called platform of the A. P. A.

But there is overwhelming evidence to prove that this is only a mask of the real objects of the organization and that in reality it is nothing more nor less than a conspiracy for religious proscription and is at war with the spirit of our free institutions.

Its true nature is revealed in the oath which is administered when members are initiated. This oath is considered a profound secret, but in has been revealed by several different persons in different places, and as their reports agree substantially, they must be believed.

Every person who joins the A. P. A. is required to swear that he will never favor or aid the nomination, election, or appointment of a Roman Catholic to any political office, and that he will never employ a Roman Catholic in any capacity at the services of a Protestant can be obtained.

This oath shows what a mass of hypocrisy and lies the published A. P. A. platform is, but the practices of which it has been convicted condemn it far more severely than the more terms of its initiatory oath.

It has circulated forged papal encyclicals, forged letters from Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland and other Catholic prelates, in which Catholics are incited to opposition to our institutions. These forgeries are so gross and clumsy that it seems strange that any persons of ordinary intelligence should be deceived by them, but they have been used with powerful effect in arousing the anti-Catholic fury on which the A. P. A. lives.

In a recent article, Mr. Washington Gladden gives several incidents to illustrate the miserable work of this order. A physician writing from a small town in Ohio, says:

"We have been, and still are, having an excitement in our usually quiet town, in regard to the Catholic question. There is not a Catholic in the entire township; but a large number of our people are intensely stirred up, some almost prostrated with fear, afraid that the Catholics are about making a wholesale attack upon Protestants, killing and plundering, and destroying our schools and churches."

A similar state of things is said to be quite common in the smaller towns of the Northwest.

What shall be said of the infamy of the tricksters who thus play on the fears and passions of the ignorant? Any society, or order, which engages in such work is a public enemy and should be so held by all who love their country.

The Chicago papers of last Thursday contained an account of the death of Mr. D. B. Hull, a citizen of Morris, Ill., who was a victim of A. P. A. venom and vengeance. Mr. Hull joined the order under the apprehension that its objects were truly set forth in its published platform. As soon as he found out the true nature of the organization he severed his connection with it and renounced allegiance to its obligations.

A systematic persecution of Mr. Hull was at once begun. He was arraigned before the grand jury on trumped up charges. Not only was his business boycotted, but he was the recipient daily of letters threatening his life, and telling him that "the avenger" would not permit him to escape. Mr. Hull who, appears to have been weak both in mind and body, was so tormented by these threats that he lost his reason and in a fit of terror had a stroke of apoplexy, from which he died.

The A. P. A. is responsible for the death of that man as if it had ordered one of its members to assassinate him, and the order had been carried out.

The present mayor of Denver was induced by misrepresentations to join the A. P. A. When he became mayor he found that he must either violate his oath of office or the oath of the A. P. A. His oath of office binds him to support the law, which forbids the application of religious tests to candidates for office. The mayor was convinced that among the applicants for the office of chief of police, decidedly the most worthy was one who happened to be a Catholic. Like an honest and faithful official, he appointed that man. The A. P. A. at once demanded the removal of the chief. The mayor refused and the A. P. A. denounced him ferociously, ordered that his photograph be draped in black and inscribed "Perjurer and Traitor," he hung in the society's hall. Resolutions were adopted declaring "that all communication with said traitor and perjurer do now forever cease;" and that "whenever his carcass repose in the arms of mother earth, in whatsoever land, an unknown committee, duly appointed, shall perform its last rite in the name of this council, by marking the place, that all may know, 'Here lies a traitor.'"

Such instances of the vengeful spirit of the A. P. A. could be multiplied until they filled many columns. The society is at war with the genius of our government, and the nature of our institutions. It is worse than the worst form of "Know-nothingism," because it singles out for its assaults the adherents of a particular religious faith, who are guaranteed equal civil and political rights with all other citizens by the constitution of the United States. No public official can obey the dictates of the A. P. A. and not prove false to the oath he takes to support the laws of his country. The society boasts that it has already gained control of the municipal government of several cities in the west and talks wildly about dominating national politics. If it ever should, God pity the country. Such a calamity will not be possible until the people of the United States shall forget or renounce the principles on which their government is founded and become weak enough and mean enough to be dominated by a secret society based on prejudice and hate and organized for the sole purpose of religious proscription and persecution.

As a southerner I am glad and proud that this abomination has not established itself in the south and my faith in the intelligence, liberality and patriotism of this people gives me the assurance that the miserable, mischievous and contemptible A. P. A. movement will never invade this part of our country.

F. H. RICHARDSON.

The Advertiser is able to state definitely that Hon. J. D. Barron will be a candidate for re-election to the office of Secretary of State. He has held the position for several years, and discharged its duties acceptably and faithfully. He is now serving his second elected term, which, owing to the anti-third term sentiment, is his main obstacle. He has friends by the score in every locality in the State, and it goes without saying that he will have a strong following. So far, there are four avowed candidates for this position—the present incumbent, Hon. F. B. Lloyd, J. K. Jackson, Esq., and Dr. C. W. Vines. Mr. Barron's home county is Clay; Mr. Lloyd's Montgomery; Mr. Jackson's Lauderdale, and Dr. Vines, Tallapoosa.

A Columbus, O., special of Tuesday says: "The board of Ohio penitentiary managers is wrought up over the report that the government of the United States contemplates the building of a prison in the south for government prisoners for the reason that all such convicts now sent to the Ohio penitentiary suffer from the rigors of the climate. The board, while agreeing that in many trouble, wants the old practice preserved because it is profitable to the state. There are at present 125 southern prisoners at the 'pen,' divided among the states as follows: Georgia, 48; Arkansas, 22; Florida, 16; South Carolina, 11; Kentucky, 8; Tennessee, 9; Alabama, 6; Texas, 4; North Carolina, 3; Mississippi, 1. These prisoners are nearly all long termers and by far the most profitable of any in the prison. The department of justice at Washington is under contract to pay the management of the Columbus 'pen' 25 cents a day for the sustenance of each of them. Fully half the number are employed by the state at work requiring skilled labor, and the remainder, who work on contracts, command high wages because they are long-termers and more valuable than the majority of Ohio convicts. Last year the prison management made a clear profit of $21,890 on United States prisoners, which materially helped to keep the institution out of debt."

SILVER AND THE PLATFORM.

The following is the financial plank of the platform adopted by the National Democratic convention at Chicago, in 1892:

"We denounce the republican legislation known as the Sherman act of 1890, as a cowardly makeshift, fraught with possibilities of danger in the future, which should make all of its supporters, as well as its author, anxious for its speedy repeal. We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country; and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal, or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value or be adjusted through international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in payments of debts; and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of the farmers and laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and a fluctuating currency. Before the adoption of the platform, Mr. Thomas Patterson, of Colorado, secured the floor and moved to amend the above by the insertion of the word 'FREE' between the words 'the' and 'coinage' in the eighth line, so as to make the platform read:

"We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country; and to the FREE coinage of both without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage, etc."

The Official Proceedings of the Chicago Convention, page 95, show that, on a call for the yeas and nays the motion of the gentleman from Colorado was lost. So the convention declined to put a declaration for 'free' coinage in the platform.

VERY FUNNY.

The Atlanta Constitution, in its last installment of its daily attack on Hon. W. C. Oates, who is guilty of being a candidate for office without abusing President Cleveland, has this to say:

"Mr. Oates himself knew perfectly well what unconditional repeal meant. In the early part of last year he wrote to one of his constituents, that while he was in favor of the repeal of the Sherman law, as all Democrats were, he would never vote for repeal unless it was accompanied by Democratic legislation on the line of the platform. His letter was published in these columns. Nevertheless, Mr. Oates did vote for the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law."

Here is richness, sure enough. In voting for the unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act Mr. Oates did exactly what the Constitution urged every Democrat in congress to do. It not only did that, but while the repeal act was before congress the Constitution said editorially that the Democrat who would not vote for unconditional repeal until he was assured of substitute silver legislation was guilty of "imitating this detestable example of John Sherman's mendacity."

Now the Constitution attacks Mr. Oates because he would not imitate "this detestable example of John Sherman's mendacity."

Verily the Constitution is hard to please. Every Democrat who voted for unconditional repeal and every one who voted against it can find in the editorial columns of the Constitution for the past seven months that his course has been both approved and condemned by that eminently reliable and thoroughly consistent Democratic authority.—Atlanta Journal.

SAM JONES' PICTURES.

THE PREACHER AND THE DOCTOR POWERFULLY DELINEATED.

THE STORY OF PAT AND THE PHYSICIAN—SPARKLING SKETCHES OF CHARACTER BY THE EVANGELIST.

Chattanooga Times.

Chattanooga, Ga., March 15.—I purpose in a series of articles to discuss professionals, or rather to go into the various professions.

The two leading professions of this country are the minister and the doctor. These two stand related to soul and body—each of infinite importance.

Each successive year adds thousands to these professions. The theological seminaries are busy on the one side and the medical colleges upon the other turning out full-fledged ministers and doctors.

We have preachers and preachers, and doctors and doctors, and while these are the two most important of all professions, yet they are bringing up the rear of the procession.

The physician with his profession is as old as the diseases of men. The preacher has claimed a place in the moral world as long. Doctors of pills and doctors of divinity are the oldest doctors in the world.

I was sitting in a Pullman sleeper some time ago, talking with an eminent physician from San Diego, California. I said to him:

"Doctor, what is the matter with you and my profession? We have the two important professions of the world today, and yet we are behind all other professions in knowledge and efficiency, and I sometimes think we preachers are at the foot or rear of the procession. I give you doctors credit for knowing some things but while your profession is so old yet you seem to know so little. The science of hygiene, anatomy and physiology is either very inefficient or you are not apt scholars."

Said I:

"Take the science of electricity. It is now only in its infancy, and yet we see Edison inventing the little electric metre. When the cable stretched from Newfoundland across the ocean breaks at any point he puts the metre to the cable, and says to the repair ship: 'Go out two thousand miles at a certain latitude, pick up the cable and mend it,' and the repair ship goes out and finds that he is correct."

"And yet," I said, "doctor, your gentlemen of the medical profession will get a man right down before you on the bed and table, who is not six feet long, and you cannot tell what is the matter with him to save your life."

The doctor sat thoughtful a moment and replied:

"Mr. Jones, there is a wonderful difference between a man and a wire."

I said: "Doctor, I give your profession credit for seeking, by diagnosis and prognosis, to determine the nature of diseases and for the application of right remedies, but my profession seems to know all about remedies and little about diseases. We are strangers in diagnosis and prognosis. If a physician walked to the door of my sick room and without asking a question or counting my pulse or taking my temperature or looking at my tongue, said to me: 'You are sick, are you?' and I replied: 'Yes, very sick,' and without further ado he opened his medicine case, took out a double handful of his compounds, walked to the bed and said: 'Open your mouth,' then I would renig on the whole proceeding. Being already nearly dead, I am sure that would finish me."

I said to the physician: "I give you doctors credit for seeking to know by all means the diseases which affect your patients, by a hundred questions, by the test of temperature, by touch and insight, by spectroscopes, by all appliances and means you seek to know the diseases and then skillfully apply the right remedies, but with us preachers, how different! Like a pharmacist, we know the technical names of all remedies, and know how to compound them skillfully in the moral field, but few of us ever test temperature, count pulses, investigate causes and see results."

The average preacher, without seeking to know the moral diseases with which men are dying every day, goes into his ecclesiastical laboratory, fills up his medicine case, stands up in his pulpit and tells every man: 'Open your mouth,' and the average sinner don't open. He says: 'I will risk the disease rather than the remedies so complicated and so unskillfully administered.'

"These two professions come into home life; they are sacred professions. The vicious, the unskilled, the ignorant and the indolent doctor is a curse to humanity and brings reproach upon one of the noblest professions in which humanity can engage itself.

The preacher, upon the other hand, a minister of God, sent as a mediator between God and man, operating between God and man, co-operating with man and co-operating with God in the subtle and transcendently intricate work of bringing souls in right relations to God, for him to be idle and indolent and unskillful along the lines of his profession, is a sin against God and a sin against man.

It is not the fundamental duty of a physician to know the name of remedies, to know simply what the pharmacist knows, but his most intricate and subtle task is in diagnosing for where the vital organs are involved and becoming impaired, where disease becomes complicated and the faithful, effective and intelligent work of the physician, then the test is made. The doctor and the patient come up together, or, on the other hand, they ought to go down together.

Many of our little doctors by the time they learn to roll a pill round or dose a baby with soothing syrup become skeptical or agnostical which is but another name for being tremendously jassical.

In the medical college he has seen a few bodies dissected, a few tumors removed, the ligaments, arteries and veins traced, and over the dry professional books, he has lingered for a short while until the diploma makes him an M. D., which does not always stand for "medical doctor," but may sometimes mean "medical doser" without knowledge of disease or the power to heal them.

So in the ecclesiastical world. With a little literary learning, evidenced by a diploma, and after spending three or four years in a "Theological seminary," he comes out a full-fledged D. D., which stand either for "Doctor of Divinity," "Done Dead," or "Doodle Digger," as the case may be.

A little paripatetic, perfumed, pusillanimous parson, who knows how to shake hands with the brethren, make friends with the sisters by kissing the babies, and having his hair elegantly combed and perfumed with cinnamon drops, is frequently at a premium.

The patient, wise, skilled, toiling physician who lives in his profession, who honors his profession by a fidelity to the sick and a consecration to the task of their recovery is a benediction to the profession to which he belongs, and is honored of men, and is doing as sacred work as any minister who preaches the gospel. A broad, sensible preacher, whose knowledge of psychology and theology, coupled with a thorough knowledge of men and things, without affectation, without morbid dignity, enthusiasm of a genuine, sympathetic soul, can lay his hands upon the moral disease which hurts and the malady which ruins, and by applications of right remedies, lifts his patients into moral health and spiritual regeneration, he honors his profession and demonstrates his call to that profession.

Many of our doctors rank with the physician whom Pat approached and said: "Doctor, my wife is sick. I will give you five dollars if you go to see her, kill or cure." The physician paid the visit. Pat's wife died. The physician presented his bill to Pat. Pat said: "Faith, doctor, I don't owe you a cent. 'Why?' the physician replied, "You told me you would give me five dollars, kill or cure." Then said Pat: "Did you cure my wife?" "No," said the doctor. Then said Pat: "Did you kill her?" "No," said the doctor, and Pat replied: "I don't owe you a cent. I was to give you five dollars to kill or cure, and you did neither."

And many a minister would starve at his profession if his pay depended upon killing or curing, for with thousands of his patients he has never done either.

In the practice of the medical profession we have our sovereign remedies—quinine, calomel, and so on. In the profession of the D. D., we have our sovereign remedies—repentance toward God and faith in Jesus Christ.

A remedy administered by the most skilled physicians for the body, for the most skilled physician for the soul, will not avail unless the patient takes the remedy, follows the prescriptions and takes advice.

Both professions may spend too much time with books and too little with men; know too much about the science and not enough about the practice. The little doctor, whose prescription is compound cathartic pills and a jug of liquor has about served his day and generation and must retire. The little parson who lives upon his sectarian creed and believes in no good outside of his own narrow theology and narrower church has his walking papers add must surrender the field to the worthy men who, like St. Peter at the home of Cornelius, saw that God was no respecter of persons, but that in all nations, "He that feareth God and worketh righteousness is accepted of Him."

SAMP. JONES.

Each County Executive Committee shall decide for its county whether the delegates to the State Convention shall be selected by primary election, beat meetings, county conventions or mass meetings. All primary election and beat meetings which elect delegates to county conventions shall be held on Saturday, the 12th day of May, and all primary elections which are held to elect delegates to the State Convention and all county conventions or mass meetings that they held for the same purpose shall be held on Wednesday, May 16th.

No delegates to the Congressional Conventions shall be elected at the same time that delegates are elected to the State Convention. Delegates to the Congressional Convention shall be elected in such manner as the respective County Executive Committee shall determine, on Saturday, the 26th day of August, 1894, and the Congressional Conventions of the several districts in the State shall be held at such places as the respective Congressional Executive Committees may determine, on Tuesday Sept. 4th, 1894.

All qualified voters shall be entitled, and are requested, to participate in the primaries, beat meetings, conventions and mass meetings of the party, who come under any one of the following classifications, to-wit:

First—All those who voted in the last National election for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Second—Those Democrats who would have voted for Cleveland and Stevenson in the last National election, but were prevented from so voting because they were not able to go to the polls.

Third—All those who will be entitled to vote in the next election who are democrats, who were not qualified voters in the last election, and who will support the ticket nominated by the next Democratic State Convention.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Cured, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

Dr. G. C. Osceola, Lowell, Mass.

Dr. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

The State Normal School offers to the youth of Alabama a fine opportunity to acquire a thorough education in the English Language, Mathematics and Elementary Sciences, and a professional Teacher's course which prepares them to teach successfully in the Public Schools of the State.

To enter the Normal Department of the school, pupils must be at least fifteen years of age, of good moral character and sound constitution, and be able to pass satisfactory examinations in the studies pursued by the Freshman class, viz: Arithmetic and Elementary Algebra, English Grammar and Composition, Physical Geography, Physiology and United States History. They must promise to obey the rules and regulations of the school and obligate themselves to teach two years in the public schools of the State, or pay regular collegiate rates of tuition.

Students may by paying tuition, take the regular collegiate studies and in place of the Normal course of study, pursue the language course in which are taught, Latin, Greek, French and German.

Gordon Frank resigned his position as manager of the Jew Store and deputy sheriff and went to Macon, Ga., on Tuesday, to take charge of the work on the sewerage contract of Gaboury & Noble in that city. He will be absent several months.

Misses Hattie and Lillie Weems entertained a number of their friends on Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Weems, of Rome. Those present were: Misses Bessie Haley, Maggie Burke, Fannie Coker, Fannie and Addie Hammond, Messrs. Arnold, Alexander, Henderson and Frank.

The Kentucky Stock Farm has the following to say of Directum, a cousin of Decree Chief: "Some ten days ago the fair people sent out personal letters to all the prominent drivers in the country asking their opinion of a free for all with Directum in. Answers have been received from about all of them and the opinion is unanimous that no horse in the country has any possible show against the 'Black Demon'."

The young men of Jacksonville tendered the young ladies a function at the Iron Queen Hotel on Friday evening, eclipsing in brilliancy any social event of the season. About 15 couples were present, and the leuten season being over, music and dancing and card-playing, was indulged in until a late hour. Refreshments consisting of blue-points salad, celery and crackers, were served during the evening in the spacious dining-room.

Bessie, the beloved cow of the Arcadia Dairy Farm, is dead! She was a gentle cow and well liked by her sad-eyed associates. She has been ailing for some time from obesity, and in a state of temporary aberration, partook freely of mountain ivy and immediately kicked the bucket. This grand old cow was purchased some time ago by Deputy Sheriff John Rowland and Den Privett for 25 cents and presented to Farmer Caldwell as a token of their love and esteem. It is said to die in the Spring time, so the poets all say.

THE ICE FACTORY.

As soon as nature's ice factory ceases the Jacksonville Ice factory will begin operations. Sam Wyly has returned from Louisville, where he has been for several months learning all about how to make ice, and is getting the machinery in readiness.

The ice is made from water from the town spring—the purest water on earth—and attained a high degree of popularity last year among the consumers of neighboring towns.

JACKSONVILLE DETACHMENT.

Capt. W. H. McKleroy and Lieut. Thos. L. Stokes; of the Woodstock Guards, went up to Jacksonville yesterday afternoon and assisted in organizing a detachment in that city.

The detachment numbers thirty-three members and comprises the best young men in the place. Prof. Jacob Forney was elected commander of the detachment and will hold the rank of lieutenant in the company proper.

The Guards already have about fifty members and this addition will give them one of the largest memberships in the State.—Hot Blast.

WEDDING AT WHITE PLAINS

Married in the Methodist church, White Plains, Ala., at 7 P. M. March 21st, Mr. Elisha W. Williams, and Miss Ella Crabtree, Rev. James H. Leslie officiating. There was quite a large audience present to witness the nuptials. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of Dr. G. C. Williams, who is a brother of the groom, where a good supper awaited them. We join with their many friends in wishing them a long and happy life.

Kolb has left the Democratic party and has asked the Republicans of the North to furnish him money with which to disrupt the Democratic party of Alabama. Kolb's following in Alabama will grow beautifully less from now on.—Talladega Home.

LETTER FROM SAM SLIM.

On the morning of the 26th my thermometer registered 24, and on the 27th it went two better, and stood 22, next to the coldest during the whole winter. One morning in January it got as low down as 18. Think of it, nearly the last of March, the weather for two days in succession, colder than any two days during the entire winter. No wonder the vegetable crop is done for and the fruit crop ditto, forward oats injured, and wheat when jointing ruined. Some of my neighbors' gardens were much forwarder than my own, and they bragged much of the start they had on me. They're quit bragging now, and I'll get an even start with them, when the ground thaws. And if winter will just quit flogging around and taking us by surprise, and we can get the early and the latter rains will have good gardens and good crops yet.

Political interest in Oxford is beginning to warm up, notwithstanding the cold wave. While Capt. Johnston has the greater following with us, Col. Oates is held prominent by many of the citizens of precinct 13. Both are admitted by all to be good men, well qualified and either can and will lead the democrats to victory on the first Monday in August next. Mayor Rich is hardly spoken of here as in the race.

I have many friends who say they will have neither, with them, it is Kolb or nothing. They are men who once stood and fought in the democrats ranks. But Kolb's winning ways, and his insatiable desire for office which they seem to understand to say, "the governor or I die," and his claiming to be a democrat, and inducing to believe that by following him they are walking on democratic ground caused many to go wrong politically. But my friends and fellow citizens, what do you think of the purposes of his recent trip to Washington? What do you think of the Home Market Republican Club, of Boston, sending out circulars to the chairman of the Republican beat committees of New England soliciting $50,000 for Kolb and asking that the thing be kept very quiet lest you who Kolb has led to believe that he is a democrat, and that in voting for him you are voting for a democrat, should learn that he is receiving aid from New England to disrupt the democratic party and break the solid South? What do you think of Ex-Gov. W. H. Smith, a life long republican, and for whom and for those whose cause he has advocated you have voted solidly against from your youth up? What do you think of Kolb's councils with 'Granny Geo. F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, the arch republican of them all, a man who in all his long life has never said one word or done one act, that he had the most remote idea would be of the very least advantage to the south? What do you think of the said Geo. F. Hoar in a letter to Albert Clark, secretary of the Republican Home Market Club, of Boston, saying: "In some way I have no doubt that the forces he (Kolb) leads will be found acting with us in all great essential in the future? What does that mean? Why, that Hoar believes you are being led right into the republican party. And did not the Kolb leaders propose to lead you in and stable you with the republicans in the fall of '92. When the elections on the Weaver ticket, which many of you voted, pledged themselves in writing, if elected, to vote for Harrison in the electoral college. Now friends, countrymen and fellow citizens, lend me your ears, and stop and think, and resolve, that you will follow no man into the republican party, and drop Kolb."

SAM SLIM.

The President on Thursday returned without his approval House bill No. 4956, entitled, "an act directing the coining of the silver bullion held in the treasury, and other purposes." He then enters upon a lengthy discussion of why he vetoed the bill.

GENERAL NEWS NOTES.

Col. Breckenridge took the stand on yesterday in the Breckenridge-Pollard suit at Washington.

The two factions of the republican party of Alabama met in Birmingham yesterday to reconcile their differences if possible, and determine about a state ticket.

Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, died in Washington last Monday and was buried in Macon, Ga., yesterday. The funeral train from Washington carried a large number of senators and representatives to attend the obsequies.

The freeze last Sunday and Monday was general all through the south and has done incalculable damage. All the fruit and it is feared that the wheat crop has suffered heavily. Not a county in Alabama escapes.

Capt. Thos. H. Dunn, a prominent contractor, formerly of Birmingham, was murdered and robbed by unknown parties near Llano, Texas, last Saturday afternoon. Capt. Dunn moved to Texas more than a year ago and was operating extensive iron mines in Llano county. He was on his way to the mines in a cart with about $1,000 on his person to pay off the employees, and failing to show up at the proper time, search was instituted and his dead body, shot through the head, was found in the road. No clue to the murderers.

The engagement of Howard Gould, son of the dead railway magnate, to Miss Bessie Kirkland, an actress of blue blooded southern stock, is announced. The lady is a native of Georgia, and granddaughter of Gen. Hardee of Confederate renown.

Germany's army of the unemployed, that was to march on Washington 50,000 strong, has been frozen out. Less than 100 started from Ohio, and it gathered no recruits. The Texas and California contingent, on the way to join them, has stranded in Western Texas and is about to starve.

GOING NORTH.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF INDUCING IMMIGRATION TO ALABAMA.

DEAR SIR:

Contemplating a visit to the Northwest about April 10th, in the interest of inducing immigration to Alabama, I desire it made known to your citizens that I will take pleasure in distributing literature descriptive of the resources and general advantages of your section; and if your community so desires, I would be glad you would send an agent to accompany me. I trust your vicinity will realize benefits from this and hope you will lend your assistance. By corresponding with me I will inform you when and where to send literature.

Yours very respectfully,
H. D. LANE,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

The above letter from Commissioner Lane to Mr. Grant explains itself. "In Alabama," agriculture is chiefly to be depended on for the upbuilding of the state. There are thousands of acres of good lands in the state, adapted to any crop, lying waste for the want of capable farmers to cultivate. The farmers already here who are farming and not depending on political maneuvering for a living are well enough, but there is abundant room for 1,000,000 more. If the newspapers would devote themselves as assiduously to placing our agricultural advantages before the world as to talking politics and bemoaning puny towns, this would soon be the garden spot of the earth. But the newspapers are not to blame for they are only a reflection of the thrift and energy of the people and if the people are without those qualities, the newspapers of necessity must be monotonous. Our citizens should bestir themselves in interests of immigration. A number of attempts have been made to bring farmers from the northwest and from Germany even, to this section but they have been dismal failures, because of the lack of united effort. A mining or manufacturing population is not so much to be desired as an agricultural one. They are the best citizens, will build towns and cities, and make the country prosperous.

If Commissioner Lane's expedition will help to put Alabama in cultivation—for Alabama is the soil—he should receive our united support.

SOCIAL GOSSIP

In the Town of Piedmont. A Number of Entertainments.

Our Correspondent Compliments the Girls and Thanks the Boys.

There was a little story in some of the papers a month ago about an old bachelor who went to a wedding, and his frozen heart was thawed by the sight of so much happiness.

As he went on his homeward way, he heard the birds singing in the wood, and the brook gurgling over its rocky bed. He smelled the fragrance of wild flowers, and of newly turned earth; and was so rejuvenated that he forgot his wrinkles, and his bald head, and pulling off his boots, actually danced a jig in the big road, and dabbled his feet in the branch.

The rising sap makes the leafless tree to bud, and even so the spring weather had warmed his blood, and made him a boy again. But he danced too soon. I wonder what he is doing now! I imagine he is sitting in the chimney corner, poking the fire, cursing the weather, the icy brook, and the frosty road, and has forgotten that he ever was a boy.

Miss Daisy McCollister, who has been teaching music at Stanton, Ala., is at home for a short rest. Her musical talents are of high order and she is besides one of the brightest and loveliest of girls.

Miss Corinne Moody, of Alabama, paid a flying visit to her uncle's family—coming on Sunday and returning on Monday.

She is a most charming young lady, and her many friends at this place, regretted the shortness of her stay. Mr. Cliff Moss accompanied Miss Corinne. It was his first visit to our city, but rumor says it will not be the last.

Mrs. Coe, of Stanton, Ala., was the guest this week of her relatives Mrs. Daily, Miss Kibbler and Mrs. McCollister.

Mr. Tally preached his farewell sermon on Sunday night at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, had a good audience. He has been preaching here for four years, and has endeared himself to the hearts of the people. They regret the parting, and hope that his lines may be cast in pleasant places.

Miss Florence Harbin returned on Tuesday from a long visit to relatives in Atlanta. She is a handsome brunette of vivacious and captivating manner and reports a most "glorious good time."

The very enjoyable entertainment at Col. Alexander on last Saturday night, passed off pleasantly to all, and profitably to the Ladies Missionary Society, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. A well executed duet by Misses Gertie Sharpe and Ida Wingo, was the only instrumental music.

Miss Walker sang "Swiss Marie" and "Pierrot," and charmed us with her exquisite voice.

Miss Tatum sang that sweet old song: "Coming Through the Rye." Miss Geneva Johnson read "Tom's Little Star." Miss Tatum gave as "Advice to Those About to be Married," and Miss Hunt read "Aunt Silvia's First Lesson in Geography." The selections were good and the reading excellent.

Miss Walker read a paper on the "Origin of Easter," after which the Easter tree was despoiled of its fruit, by the auctioneer of the occasion, Mr. Wickes.

The eggs were beautifully painted ones, and bore testimony to the artistic skill of Mrs. Little and Miss Johnson, while the fortune verses with them was sufficient evi-

ence of "Poets in Piedmont."

The goose eggs sold readily at 25 cents, and the small eggs at 10, and netted the nice little sum of six dollars.

The thanks of the society are due especially to the young men, who spent their money so freely and so generously to help a good cause.

A LETTER FROM TEXAS.

A FORMER CITIZEN YEARNS FOR HIS NATIVE HEATH.

I came to Texas ten years ago and settled near Bartlett. I live now six miles west of Bartlett. Since my arrival in Texas I have gone through a great many hardships and have not by any means been gliding along on flowery beds of ease while in the Lone Star state. If any one thinks that there is nothing to do but to go to Texas and the struggles of life are all over let me say you are sadly mistaken. Let me impress you that you have to work in Texas if you have anything to live on. It is true I do not work as hard in Texas as in Alabama for we do our work by machinery, still, we work nearer all the time in Texas than in Alabama.

I want to say that a living is hard to make in Texas. Times are extremely hard here, money is scarce and political talk more plentiful than anything else in Texas. I hear a great deal said about the Third Party and Democratic party but I take no sides with either. I am anything I am a Democrat after the old style, not this present kind of Democrats. I will leave the subject of politics.

Some of my old friends may want to know how I like Texas after a stay of ten years. I will say I like Texas and I don't like Texas. This country is being filled to running over with Germans and a great many of them are of the low grade, belonging to the Roman Catholic church. Nearly all of them drink whisky.

This country is largely owned by Germans especially South of Waco. Some Yankees come down South and make Texas their home. Farming in Texas is not so profitable as it once was stock raising is a thing of the past in middle Texas. It was the means of breaking a great many men, some who once owned good property.

People have tried many ways to make a living and many have failed in all the ways. The mercantile business is not what it was even when I came to Texas. It takes a good business man to run five or six years without breaking.

I will say a little of our prospects for a crop this year. I confess it is a little gloomy. We have very little rain. The town of Bartlett was visited recently by a severe storm, the Methodist church was demolished and the Baptist and other churches were greatly damaged. Many houses were blown from their foundations. Storm houses are plentiful now.

I see our old friend, H. L. Whitesides, of Alexandria, Ala., is well pleased with Texas. I don't know whether my wife Sarah wants to go back to Alabama to live or not, but she is bent on going back on a visit.

THE MILITARY FEVER

IN JACKSONVILLE CULMINATES IN THE ORGANIZATION OF A DETACHMENT OF AN ANTI-TON COMPANY.

The military spirit in the boys of Jacksonville has exerted itself—that spirit, supposed, to exert in breast of every Southern born boy, the love of arms and military display, the knowledge that if needed for their country's service they would be ready and capable. An attempt was made sometime ago to form a company of State troops here, but the attempt was unsuccessful for the reason that there was no vacancy in any regiment; so the next best thing was resorted to—forming a detachment of some neighboring company.

The Woodstock Guards, of Anniston, offered splendid inducements, and the young men decided on forming a detachment at once.

Wednesday evening Capt. McKleroy and Lieutenant Stokes, of the Guards, came up and made a proposition to the boys favoring organization, assembled at the Iron Queen Hotel. The proposition was accepted and the detachment formed.

President Forney, of the State Normal School was chosen Captain, ranking as lieutenant in the Guards.

The names of the following young men were enrolled as Charter members:

C. N. Arnold; B. E. Frank; W. A. Wilkerson; R. C. Adams; S. L. Nesbit; C. A. Wilkerson; C. S. McGinnis; P. E. Williams; A. B. Newman; W. H. Boyd; J. F. Bragginton; E. M. Lane; S. M. Deshail; T. M. Alexander; P. L. Hammond; J. F. Henderson; James Higgins; John Hames; J. J. Hames; John Adelpholdt; C. J. Woodruff; Sam Swan; Frank Martin; Lon Montgomery; Woodson Martin; Jacob Forney; E. O. McCornick.

The non-commissioned officers will be two sergeants and two corporals, the senior sergeant acting as lieutenant of detachment.

R. C. Adams was elected secretary and treasurer, and Messrs. Alexander, Frank and Hames, were appointed by the Captain as the standing executive committee.

The Captain will appoint the non-commissioned officers at the next meeting.

A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions to go toward fitting up a comfortable armory and a well-furnished library and reading room. It is hoped the citizens will contribute liberally.

Within a month the uniforms, guns and accoutrements will be here and the drill will begin in dead earnest. The boys will be in good form and show up in excellent shape at the brigade encampment at Mobile this summer.

Captain Forney now, please! The local military will probably come to Jacksonville in April 26th—Decoration Day, if our citizens will speak up in time—otherwise, Talladega will secure the boys, as it did last year.

IT WON'T WORK.

Captain Reuben Kolb spent last Monday and part of Monday night in Decatur. He stated that he was here on a matter of business and it now appears he was. Throughout the afternoon he was about the waiting-room at the depot; at night he registered at the American Hotel, where he is not in the habit of stopping when in the city, and where he held a conference with Republicans and Kolbites. It is now reported and generally believed that he was here to organize a scheme to keep the negroes from registering and thereby disqualify them from voting. The argument made to them is, if they do vote their ballots will not be counted, but this will be ineffectual, for the dearest right of citizenship in the estimation of the colored man, is to vote, and we believe Reuben's scheme will fail.—Decatur News.

REUBEN IN A PICKLE!

A Full Expose of His Visits to Washington.

AFTER REPUBLICAN CASH

Recognized as the Man to Break the Solid South.

ALABAMA TO BE SACRIFICED.

Efforts to Raise $50,000 For Him. He Evidently Bargains to Make his Followers Republicans. Letters of Endorsement of Kolb from Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, and Ex-Governor Smith of Alabama. The Republicans of this State Pledged to Vote for Kolb and to Aid Him in Electing a Legislature.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—(Special)—The following telegram which appeared in the New York Sun of today will be rich and racy reading to all Democrats in Alabama.

It will show how the genial Reuben spent his time when he was here several weeks ago, and, if any doubt remains in the minds of his followers after the Whitehead letter, they will be settled.

The telegram was sent from Boston and speaks for itself:

Boston, March 23.—The Home Market Club is stirring itself in New England as an active ally of the Kolb party in Alabama and seeks to raise $50,000 to aid the Jeffersonian Democrats in the campaign there.

Senator Hoar, in a letter, says he believes that this campaign may result in breaking the Solid South and assure the triumph of protection.

"The Home Market club has sent out circulars marked 'in confidence' seeking to raise this money.

"The appeal is: 'To the Chairman of the Republican Town Committees in New England, Gentlemen:—Those best versed in national politics believe that a better use can be made of a little money this year than to immediately extend aid to the Jeffersonian Democrats of Alabama.

"We wish to raise at least $50,000 in New England.

"In order that all parts may have a share in this hopeful work and make the burden as light as possible for each you are requested to ask your friends to contribute what they will. The sum desired from your town is about $10. Will you see personally or have some trustworthy person do it for you, such of your best Republicans as will make up this amount. Please return all the papers with check or money order payable to Albert Clarke, treasurer, in the enclosed stamped envelope and within a few days if possible.

"Prudence requires that strict privacy should be observed in raising the money. There is so much prejudice in the South that it might be fatal to the cause to have it become known the Kolb party receives any aid from New England. We pray you therefore to avoid seeing any but discreet men and to impress upon them the importance of secrecy.

Yours truly,

JNO. SHEPPARD (of Sheppard Norwell & Co.)

JNO. SHAW (of Johnston & Shaw.)

ALBERT CLARKE, Secretary of the Home Market Club.

Boston, March 18, 1894."

Accompanying this appeal is a Bulletin of Hope, under the heading of "Light Breaking in the South."

It is an extract from the Home Market bulletin of March 1894 and reads:

"Capt. Reuben F. Kolb has been nominated by the Jeffersonian Democrats of Alabama for Governor upon a platform demanding a free ballot and a fair count and Protection to American industries. The election will be held in August and at the same time a legislature will be chosen which will elect a successor to Senator Morgan.

"In 1892 Captain Kolb was elected governor by more than 45, an honest ballot and is thoroughly sound upon the question of protection. In some way I have no doubt that the forces that he leads will be found acting with us in all great essential in the future.

"He is worthy of our support and our sympathy. Mr. Eder Draper, who has gone home, will tell you the particulars. Captain Kolb himself will visit you soon. Mr. Lodge was at Detroit when Captain Kolb was here, but I shall explain the matter to him on his return and feel quite sure of his cordial sympathy. I am faithfully yours, Geo. F. Hoar."

Congressman Walker's letter, which is appended to the circular says:

"I am thoroughly convinced and I think all our people here are that the interests of the country will be found in rendering Captain Kolb any reasonable support in any honorable way we can do it, but it must be done quietly as possible. I think it will result in a division of the South upon economic questions and that is all we ask. We do not ask them to be Republicans in any form or manner. We simply want them to act upon their convictions and we will take our chances in the result. Very truly yours, J. H. Walker.

A third paper sent out by the Home Market Club is a subscription blank at the top of which are the words: "To break the Solid South." Under this caption is the announcement: "At a meeting of Republicans held at the rooms of the Home Market Club March 1, it was voted that John Shepard, John Shaw and Albert Clarke be a committee with power to appoint others to raise among the Republicans of New England at least $50,000 to aid the Alabama campaign, which bids fair to break the Solid South in August. The undersigned promise to pay to said committee the sums set against our names."

The Boston expose of Kolb's doings in Washington has created no surprise here among Alabama Democrats as they were too well versed in his own scheme of working everybody for his advancement; but, nevertheless it has created no end of comment in political circles, and it is the common expression among Democrats from all sections of the country that this expose of Kolb's work here among the Republican leaders of the Senate and House should be a settler for him, so far as the self-respecting people of Alabama are concerned. There is also a general feeling of relief among Democrats who had entertained an idea that the Kolb movement in Alabama was of some real magnitude, that the plain statement of the facts from Boston will tell him off decisively, and that after this campaign he will never be heard of again as a menacing factor in Alabama politics.

The opinion is that Kolb has fairly well succeeded in keeping in Republicans so far as to get their aid for the ostensible purpose of raising a cash fund to promote his election. Alabama Democrats are disposed to laugh at the innocence of the Republicans who have been so thoroughly taken in by Kolb's plausible yarns about the size and influence of his following. Old "Granny" Hoar was the first to fall into Reuben's trap and he has taken up Kolb's case with all the vigor of a fledgling in politics. The old Republican from Massachusetts thinks that he has found the opportunity of his life in breaking the "Solid South," and he has gone into the work of raising a Kolb supporting fund with all the vivacity of his Radical South hating heart.

Doesn't "look" as she ought—the weak, nervous and ailing woman. As long as she suffers from the aches, pains, and derangements peculiar to her sex, she can't expect to.

But there's only herself to blame. With Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, she's a different woman. And it's a change that can be seen as well as felt. The system is invigorated, the blood enriched, digestion improved, melancholy and nervousness dispelled.

With the "Favorite Prescription," all the proper functions are restored to healthy action. Periodical pains, weak back, bearing-down sensations, nervous prostration, all "female complaints" are cured by it. It's the only medicine for woman's weaknesses and ailments that's guaranteed to do what is claimed for it. If it doesn't give satisfaction, in every case for which it's recommended, the money is returned. Can something else be offered by the dealer, though it may pay him better, he "just as good"?

THE STATE CONVENTION.

THE CALL ISSUED BY THE DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

To the Democrats of Alabama: A convention of the Democratic and Conservative Party of Alabama is hereby called to meet on the 22nd day of May, 1894, at the State Capitol, in the city of Montgomery, for the purpose of nominating State officers, to be voted for at the general election in this State.

Under the resolution adopted by the last State Convention, fixing the representation from each county upon a population basis, the respective counties of the State are entitled to the following number of delegates in said State Convention:

Each County Executive Committee shall decide for its county whether the delegates to the State Convention shall be selected by primary election, beat meetings, county conventions or mass meetings. All primary election and beat meetings which elect delegates to county conventions shall be held on Saturday, the 12th day of May, and all primary elections which are held to elect delegates to the State Convention and all county conventions or mass meetings that they held for the same purpose shall be held on Wednesday, May 16th.

No delegates to the Congressional Conventions shall be elected at the same time that delegates are elected to the State Convention. Delegates to the Congressional Convention shall be elected in such manner as the respective County Executive Committee shall determine on Saturday, the 26th day of August, 1894, and the Congressional Conventions of the several districts in the State shall be held at such places as the respective Congressional Executive Committees may determine, on Tuesday Sept. 4th, 1894.

All qualified voters shall be entitled, and are requested, to participate in the primaries, beat meetings, conventions and mass meetings of the party, who come under any one of the following classifications, to-wit:

First—All those who voted in the last National election for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Second—Those Democrats who would have voted for Cleveland and Stevenson in the last National election, but were prevented from so voting because they were not able to go to the polls.

Third—All those who will be entitled to vote in the next election who are Democrats, who were not qualified voters in the last election, and who will support the ticket nominated by the next Democratic State Convention.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute

for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil.

It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and all feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting, Sour, Curs, cures Diarrhea and Wind Colic. Castoria, relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency.

Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach

and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Cas-

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for chil-

good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osceola, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real

interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quick remedies which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium,

morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful

agents down their throats, thereby sending

them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kneeland, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that

I recommend it as superior to any prescription

Dr. A. A. Ancker, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria,

and although we only have among our

medical supplies what is known as regular

merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
